

PENSION BOOST BILL PRESENTED

OTTAWA (CP)—The bill to increase old age pensions to all Canadians 70 years and over to $55 a month from $46 was introduced today in the Commons.

The Commons also began study of a resolution outlining similar increases in old age assistance payments to needy persons between 65 and 69.

Moon Landing Possible But Won't Be Fun

By JOHN MIKA

There's a "fair" chance the younger generation will live to see man make a landing on the moon—the nature-made one that is.

But there's little likelihood that many will clamor for the privilege of taking the first step on earth's still biggest satellite.

These are the opinions of Dr. R. M. Petrie, director of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory here.

In an interview, he described some of the conditions on the moon that would, to say the least, make any tourist promoter a little morose. He also added a shorter list on the credit side, mainly of interest to scientists and astronomers.

First, there's no air up there.

This is the fountainhead of most of the tremendous problems that will have to be overcome before the first pioneer blazes trail on the lunar landscape.

A huge supply of oxygen would have to be taken for the trip, in fact "the pioneers would have to carry their own

French President Said Ready to Quit

PARIS (UP)—Reports circulated in Paris today that President Rene Coty was on the verge of resigning in disgust at the month-old government crisis.

Felix Gaillard was trying to form a cabinet but has run into difficulties because of the fence-sitting tactics of the powerful Socialist party. He is the fifth man to attempt to end the worst political crisis since the end of the war.

Rumors about Coty were so strong that the Paris leftwing weekly "Express" said he already has drafted a message to the national assembly deputies warning he will quit unless a government is formed soon.

PM Opposes Cartel Building By Ex-Nazis

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today he does not consider the building of a cartel by former Nazis is in the interest of Canadian private enterprise.

He made the statement in a Commons exchange—marked by some heat on both sides—with CCF members Colin Cameron, Nanaimo, and H. W. Herdridge, Kootenay West.

Mr. Cameron had asked whether the prime minister would see if there isn't some way "to preserve the Canadian economy" from joint exploitation of the member said are planned in Canada by German industrialist Alfred Krupp and Swedish industrialist Alex Wenner-Gren to build up "a heavy industry cartel" in Germany.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the implications in Mr. Cameron's question are no more than should be expected from a person who does not believe in private enterprise.

However, private enterprise did not include allowing exploitation. The government did not want to interfere with investment in Canada.

But it did want "to ensure that investment in Canada is for Canadian purposes and under Canadian law."

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Our Father, in the name of the supremely great Teacher bless all those who are called to be teachers of the Christian faith and way. In a time of freedom of other agencies to teach all else but religion may the teachers of Thy way realize the momentous significance of the work they are called to do. May they understand that the future of Christian civilization is in large measure in their hands. May they know that the church itself will fade away if the teaching that brought the church into existence is neglected; in Christ's name. Amen.

Zhukov Fighting Ouster to Limit?

(From Times Wire Services) Belief that Soviet war hero Marshal Zhukov is not stepping down quietly grows hourly as the Communist party prae-sidium delays its announcement of his new assignment.

The praesidium announced last Saturday that the ousted defence minister would be given a lesser military post but it was indicated that Zhukov might not accept the humiliation.

Moscow correspondents of Western Communist papers have reported, in dispatches cleared by the Soviet censors, that Zhukov hindered the work of Soviet Communist party political workers in the army.

There also have been suggestions that he had ambitions to use his reputation as a military hero to spring to supreme power in the Soviet Union—challenging party secretary Nikita Khrushchev.

Meanwhile, Soviet publications lashed out at "swagging ... military leaders" and "apostates and renegades."

Western diplomatic sources said it was the start of the public disgrace of the Red Army hero.

The Soviet naval organ Red Fleet called for "decisive condemnation" of "exaltation of individual ... swagging ... military leaders."

The Soviet party newspaper Pravda printed an article noting that "apostates and renegades, right or left wing schismatics and fractionaries" in the party have "invariably met with crushing rebuff."

Dispatches on both articles cleared meticulous Soviet censorship. The censors also passed a line in a dispatch that referred to Zhukov as a "former hero."

Tory Stand On Gas Irks SC Leader

Withdrawal of Support Hinted

BY VICTOR J. MACKIE

Times Ottawa Correspondent
OTTAWA—Social Credit support of the Diefenbaker government in the Commons may be withdrawn as a result of the statement made by Prime Minister John Diefenbaker concerning the possible export of Alberta natural gas at Emerson, Man.

National Social Credit leader Solon Low said today, "We'll have to give very serious consideration to this. The statement was a terrific blow at the economy of Alberta already plagued with an oil surplus."

Mr. Low will approach Mr. Diefenbaker and urge that the Prime Minister modify his stand. The Social Crediters would like to see the previous Liberal commitment at least endorsed until the report of the Royal Commission on pipelines is brought down.

Progressive-Conservatives pointed out here however that this in effect would be a repudiation of the stand taken by the Conservatives when they were in opposition. They cannot now endorse a policy which they previously condemned, at least until there has been a thorough examination and recommendations by the commission.

Mr. Diefenbaker, when pressed for a statement in the House Thursday by Mr. Low, said in effect that his government would not give a permit to Trans Canada Pipe Lines to export natural gas at Emerson until the Royal Commission on energy had reported and made its recommendations.

The commission may not be in a position to report for a year or a year and a half. By his statement Mr. Diefenbaker repudiated a commitment given Trans Canada Pipe Lines

Politicos Attack Bonner for Failure To Act Previously

Events moved swiftly in the Sommers-Sturdy affair today after the provincial government had ordered a sweeping royal commission investigation by Chief Justice Gordon Sloan into the allegations that Robert Sommers received bribes for the handling of forest management licences when he was forests minister in the Social Credit cabinet.

The chief justice said he will lose no time getting the inquiry under way.

It will probably open November 12 and all sittings will be in the Victoria Courthouse.

It is possible the probe may be completed within a month. This means his report would be available to the government before the legislature meets in the new year.

It is strictly a fact-finding commission. The chief justice is not required to make any recommendation as to what action should be taken as a result of what he discovers. That will be a matter for the government.

Charles H. Locke, QC, of Vancouver, will act as commission counsel, to marshal necessary witnesses and evidence, and to conduct the examination.

Other developments were:

1. David Sturdy, Vancouver lawyer who launched the original charges nearly two years ago, says Charles W. Eversfield, now of Los Angeles, has declared his readiness to appear before Mr. Sloan and give testimony. (Mr. Eversfield was formerly an accountant for Pacific Coast Services Ltd., when he made notations of various transactions which aroused his suspicions. These form the bulk of the documents in the case.)

2. The question of whether Mr. Sommers will appear before the commission, after his failure to pursue his slander suit, remained unanswered. His whereabouts are still unknown to the public. Mrs. Sommers, at her Victoria home, said she had not been in contact with him for the last two days and could not say what course he intended to pursue.

Call for Bonner to Resign

Meanwhile, Opposition party politicians centred their attack on Attorney-General Robert Bonner, at present in England, for not ordering a royal commission investigation two years ago.

CCF Leader Robert Strachan called for Mr. Bonner's resignation, as did Liberal Leader Arthur Laing.

Mr. Strachan said the terms of reference appeared to be comprehensive, but there should have been provisions to investigate whether money was paid to anyone other than Mr. Sommers.

"Has any money been paid to any other individual or to any party?" the CCF leader asked.

"When the chips are down, Mr. Sommers may say that the monies in question went not to himself but the Social Credit party."

Mr. Strachan said there was "not much doubt" Mr. Bonner had erred in his original decision not to investigate Mr. Sturdy's allegations.

"He has stalled for two years because he was being faithful to his political friends.

Text of Order On Sommers Inquiry, Page 28

Widest Possible Powers Given Sloan for Inquiry

Chief Justice Gordon Sloan has been given the widest possible powers to get to the bottom of the Sommers-Sturdy affair.

The order naming him as a one-man Royal Commission of inquiry, forecast in Thursday's Times, was announced by Premier Bennett shortly after 5 p.m. Thursday.

It came at the end of two days of intensive government activity, including several trans-Atlantic telephone calls between the Premier, Attorney-General Robert Bonner and acting attorney-general Leslie Peterson.

Victoria is to be the centre of the probe. Present plans call for all sittings to be here.

The chief justice will have full powers of a court to call all necessary witnesses, cross-examine and do everything possible to find the truth or falsity of the accusations that Robert Sommers, M.L.A. for Rossland-Trail, took bribes while he was forests minister in charge of the administration of forest management licences.

Establishment of the Royal Commission reversed the government's previous attitude of nearly two years ago when the accusation were first made. But Attorney-General Bonner has always maintained he could not do so because the issue was already before the courts in the slander suit brought by Mr. Sommers against David Sturdy, the Vancouver lawyer who made the charges. The slander suit collapsed Monday when Mr. Sommers, claiming illness, failed to press the case.

BONNER ADVISE
In announcing the probe, Mr. Bennett repeatedly stressed that it had been decided on the recommendation of Mr. Bonner, who is currently in London heading a trade mission.

The premier said Chief Justice Sloan was "reluctant" to accept the commission, but had been persuaded.

The chief justice explained today why he was reluctant to accept the appointment.

"All judges are reluctant to take an inquiry of this nature," he said. "It is not the sort of investigation in which we like to get involved."

However, Chief Justice Sloan added that the government had pointed out to him that there was precedent for such an appointment.

The chief justice also said his familiarization with the forest industry gained through his two inquiries was another reason why he acceded to the government's pressing request.

Under terms of the inquiry, the chief justice is asked to determine:

"Whether money or other properties have been improperly paid or transferred ... to Robert E. Sommers, M.L.A., as consideration for the performance of his duties in the granting, issuance or awarding of forest management licences or other privileges under the laws of the province applicable to forestry ..."

Chief Justice Sloan will report his findings to the cabinet. Setting up of the inquiry was demanded of the government from all sides this week following the dismissal of the slander suit.

The cabinet session to pass the probe order ended at 3.30 and the premier was closeted in his office for the next 40 minutes with Chief Justice Sloan.

After further discussions with acting attorney-general Peterson, the premier called reporters into his office and read off a statement.

He began with the apparent good humor that has marked his meetings with the press this week, but grew testy at report.

atmosphere with them," Dr. Petrie said.

Without oxygen, there is no life or water so that large quantities of food and water would have to be packed.

These conditions met, the rest devolve into a first-class horror story.

Because there is no air, temperatures are extreme. In the sunlight, it would be so hot that blood would boil—in fact a human would explode because of the lack of air pressure on his body. At night, or even in shadow, the temperatures are pretty close to absolute zero—about 300 degrees below Fahrenheit zero.

This means that the pioneers would have to lug around their own heating and cooling systems.

THEY MIGHT DODGE

"Of course, they could dodge in and out of the shadows of the many mountains of the moon," Dr. Petrie added whimsically. "If they were fast enough, they might survive."

But, even this would be impossible during the night. And the nights there, as well as the days, last two weeks. Lack of atmosphere—the breathing and not the cabaret type—creates another problem. Meteorites "zing" into the moon at the rate of millions per 24-hour day without burning up as they do in the protective air blanket surrounding the earth.

These range in size from a grain of sand to a pea. The larger ones wouldn't merit "too much worry" because they are rare.

FASTER THAN BULLETS

But even these tiny pellets travel through space—and anyone standing on the moon's surface would have his head in outer space—at the speed of 30 miles a second. Bullets, by comparison, are measured only in feet a second.

"That would mean that you'd have to have a terrific amount of armor plating. Even a very thick layer of lead wouldn't stop a pea-sized meteorite, although it might absorb the grain of sand size," Dr. Petrie said.

Also, due to the absence of air, a human being would be exposed to fierce and fatal radiation bombardment from the sun—so, more lead covering.

"In fact, I think the first pioneers probably would have to stay put in their rocket ship and not venture out at all."

Another problem, not quite so tough, is the reduced gravity pull on the moon.

ONE WAY TO REDUCE

"A person would weigh only one-sixth his earth weight when he was on the moon. This would create some problems but it has the very important saving grace of making a man's strength much greater because he could do far more with less exertion," Dr. Petrie said.

Another help because of this would be greater safety in falls. You could drop off a two-story building on the moon and it wouldn't feel any worse than jumping off a fence on earth."

Of course, the reverse would be true. The average man probably could jump about 24 feet in one high leap.

On the credit side of the moon's conditions, the chief factor is the immensely better observation possible of the sun, stars and planets with no atmosphere to distort the probing of telescopes and radio equipment.

And there's something for the tourist, too.

YOU'D SEE STARS

"You could see four times as many stars with the naked eye," Dr. Petrie explained. "You'd be able to see the sun's corona (halo effect) and the earth would be a beautiful sight."

"Our planet would appear 13 times larger than the full moon does to us and it would be far, far brighter."

But even for the tourists, there'd be a shock. The sky wouldn't have even a trace of the most washy blue. It's utterly black.

Ten years ago, I never would have thought that mankind would reach the moon in our lifetime," Dr. Petrie concluded. "But with the amazing progress of science now, I think there's a fair chance the younger generation will see it happen. As for living to the time when an un-manned rocket is shot to the moon, I'm sure we all will see that."

concerns mentioned, the ultimate destination of this money should be traced and discovered, he said.

Conservative Leader Deane Finlayson said in a prepared statement:

"There can be no doubt that growing public indignation over the government's handling of the Sommers affair forced the premier to burst the bag of secrecy containing the alleged suspicious actions of the former minister of lands and forests."

"The royal commission of enquiry that the premier has, at this late date, appointed should result in bringing this long drawn out and unfortunate affair to an honorable conclusion, and with this the Conservative party is in agreement."

NO NEED TO MEET

George Gregory, Victoria Liberal MLA who earlier this week urged the premier to call a special session of the legislature to deal with the charges, said today there now is no need for the House to meet.

"One of the chief things I wished to accomplish when I urged the premier to call a special session has already been done in the appointment of the royal commissioner," Mr. Gregory said.

"But I hope the report will be received before the legislature sits again."

Mr. Gregory said he would like to see the terms of ref-

REPLACE BONNER

Mr. Bonner should be replaced immediately, Mr. Gregory said.

The same evidence which motivated the government to set up the commission Thursday was presented to the attorney-general in December, 1955.

"At that time there was no civil action, but nothing was done," Mr. Gregory said.

"But Mr. Bonner did make the statutory declaration available to Mr. Sommers, who then used it as a basis for civil action."

Meanwhile, Mr. Sturdy commented that he has "at last accomplished what I started to do more than two years ago."

Mr. Sturdy said he hoped to be allowed to act as counsel for Mr. Eversfield at the inquiry.

become professor of physics in the meantime) said one might shoot a rocket to the moon and it would signal its arrival by the explosion of a load of flashlight powder.

Some critics thought that was nonsense because rocket propulsion cannot work in empty space. It can and does as we know very well by now. Others took a kidding attitude.

Goddard lacked the personality which can, if necessary, shout down a stubborn opponent, and grew quite retiring. He worked on, supported by grants from the Guggenheim and Carnegie Foundations and in 1935 one of his rockets reached an altitude of 7,500 feet.

FUNDS STOPPED

His work was then stopped for lack of funds.

After the outbreak of Second World War, he worked for the Navy again, this time trying to develop rockets that were to facilitate the take-off of the Navy's flying boats.

In 1945, he died in the aftermath of a throat operation.

If he had lived for only two more years, he would have seen what rockets can do. Even his take-off units did not become his direct monument. A California group was more successful in the same field. But American scientists now know that he pointed the way.

PAIRS OF A KIND

Just as Ganswindt and Ziolkovsky belong together even if they did not know of one another's existence, Goddard and his German counterpart Hermann Oberth must be mentioned in the same breath.

Oberth, now a mathematician at the Army's Redstone Arsenal, Huntsville, Ala., was born June 25, 1894, at Schassburg in Transylvania, part of a German-speaking enclave in a mainly Hungarian area.

Since his father was a physician the son was to become one too, but he found mathematics more stimulating.

Though 12 years younger than Goddard, he did his fundamental reasoning at the same time—during First World War.

Liquid Fuel Theory Duplicated

Like Ziolkovsky, he hit upon the idea of liquid fuels, which Goddard mentioned only once, but used when he experimented at a later date. Like Goddard, he conceived the step rocket.

But aside from those two items, everything was as different as possible. Goddard had named his book "A Method of Reaching Extreme Altitudes." Oberth called his "The Rocket Into Interplanetary Space."

Goddard had mainly instrument-carrying rockets for exploration of the upper atmosphere in mind. Oberth described an instrument-carrying rocket because it was scientifically useful. But he considered his instrument-carrying rocket mainly as a prototype for the spaceships that had to come.

STEP BY STEP

To Oberth's mind, as to the minds of his disciples, every improvement in a rocket was merely one more step on the road to space travel. There by Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe, former minister of trade and commerce, promising to issue a permit when the Federal Power Commission in Washington had approved the import of Canadian gas at Emerson.

POLITICS DRAGGED IN

"It is a serious matter when a commitment like this can be repudiated," Mr. Low said outside the House Friday. "It is bringing the game of politics too strongly into the field of economics. The Diefenbaker government will take a terrific beating in the west over this."

He was asked, "Will you have to reconsider your announced position of general support of the government?"

"We will certainly have to give very serious consideration to that," he replied.

Mr. Low forecast that with the inevitable delay in announcing Canadian policy, waiting upon the report of the royal commission, the American interest seeking to import Canadian gas at Emerson would seek other sources.

MARKET MIGHT GO

"That prospective market for Alberta gas might well be gone forever," Mr. Low said. Midwestern Gas Transmission Company, a subsidiary of Tennessee Gas Transmission Company, has an application before the Federal Power Commission in the U.S. seeking the right to import Alberta natural gas at Emerson. It was learned at Ottawa Friday that those opposing the application were prepared to argue that in the light of Mr. Diefenbaker's statement in the Commons Thursday there was no longer in existence a firm commitment from the Canadian government that a permit to export would be available to Trans-Canada. On that grounds they will seek dis-ers' questions after the statement was completed.

He was particularly annoyed at questions dealing with the attorney-general's position in that Mr. Bonner had originally rejected an inquiry into Mr. Sturdy's allegations.

"I don't want to discuss that," Mr. Bennett said.

When a reporter asked whether he thought Mr. Bonner had "erred" in his earlier judgment, the premier said after a slight pause:

"My friend, the attorney-general is the attorney-general, and the government has acted on his recommendations."

The premier also refused to discuss what effect the inquiry would have on Mr. Sommers' position as MLA for Rossland-Trail.

"That isn't a question to ask the premier," he said. "The premier doesn't elect MLAs."

Mr. Bennett stressed repeatedly that the government was acting on the advice of Mr. Bonner in ordering the inquiry.

MAKE SURE

"I want it made very sure this recommendation came from him," the premier said.

(When a Vancouver newspaper telephoned Mr. Bonner in London Tuesday night and informed him of the dismissal of Mr. Sommers' suit, the attorney-general stuck to his original stand against ordering an inquiry or releasing the special RCMP report on the case. The next day, he told the newspaper that an inquiry "could not be ruled out.")

In his statement, the premier reviewed the history of the charges which will now be investigated some two years after they were first made.

He referred to the statements made in the legislature by former Liberal MLA Gordon Gibson in the spring of 1955 that "money had talked" in the issuance of forest management licences.

The government appointed Mr. Justice A. E. Lord to investigate the allegations, but Mr. Gibson declined to appear before him.

Then, in December, 1955, Mr. Sturdy appeared before Chief Justice Sloan's Forestry Commission and attempted to present his information.

Chief Justice Sloan said the terms of reference of his inquiry prevented him from hearing Mr. Sturdy, but the allegations were printed in the press and Mr. Sommers launched his civil slander action.

"The accusations were not resolved in the Supreme Court action," the premier said, "and the action was dismissed recently at the instance of the person making the statements and allegations."

"Since that time I have been in communication with the attorney-general... and it is his recommendation that an inquiry be launched under the Public Inquiries Act."

missal of the Midwestern application.

Trans-Canada has entered into a precedent agreement, dated Aug. 11, 1955, with Tennessee which provides for a 25 years contract for the sale of 200,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas per day to be delivered at Emerson. The right to purchase gas at Emerson has been assigned by Tennessee to Midwestern.

Tie Old-Age Pensions To COL Says Sinclair

(From Times News Services)

Hon. James Sinclair says federal old age pensions should be removed from "the political arena" and in future be adjusted automatically.

The former Liberal fisheries minister said that pension increases, instead of being used as "a bribe to the electorate," should be tied to rises in living costs.

He suggested that if this were done, the present upward trend in prices would mean an automatic annual increase of three per cent.

$75 Pension Urged by Coldwell

CCF leader Coldwell said that old age pensions ought to be increased to $75 a month to restore to pensioners the purchasing power they had when the previous $40 a month figure was established in 1949.

Social Credit leader Solon Low called for an escalator clause in pensions legislation to counteract inflation. He said persons on fixed income should have some protection from rising prices.

Erhart Regier (CCF-Burnaby-Coquitlam) said some sort of medical and hospital assistance for old-age pensioners is "of far greater importance" to them than a few dollars of pension increase.

The House gave final approval to a government bill to provide cash advances on farm-stored Prairie grain, up to a maximum of $3,000 a farm. The measure now goes to the Senate for approval.

Agriculture Minister Harkness said the legislation will take effect as soon as possible after it receives Royal assent. It would take between a week and 10 days to prepare and distribute application forms and other necessary documents.

Former Agricultural Minister James Gardiner charged the Conservative government with "gagging parliament" by refusing to answer questions about the Trans-Canada pipeline.

The pipeline question arose when Social Credit leader Low asked the government whether it would honor the undertakings of the former Liberal government by allowing natural gas to be exported to the United States from Emerson, Man.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said the question could not be answered since it came under the terms of the study to be made by the recently appointed Borden royal commission on energy matters.

The Senate Thursday passed a private bill to allow the British Columbia Telephone Company to increase its authorized capital to $250,000,000 from $75,000,000. The bill now goes to the Commons.

Trade Minister Churchill indicated the government may be contemplating new moves to speed up wheat marketings, possibly next year. "We are not averse to considering other means to market wheat and we may very well have suggestions to make," he said during the debate on cash advances.

Municipal representatives could attend next month's federal-provincial fiscal conference if provincial governments want to include them in their delegations, Finance Minister Fleming said Thursday.

Health Minister Monteith indicated that mental and tubercular patients in specialized hospitals will be covered under the federal-provincial hospital insurance plan.

BOMB SPLINTER TAKEN FROM ISRAELI PREMIER

JERUSALEM (AP)—A hand grenade splinter was removed from Premier David Ben-Gurion's left leg today and his condition is satisfactory, a hospital source said.

The 70-year-old prime minister has been in hospital since a man lobbed a grenade to the floor of Parliament Tuesday. Slow improvement was noted in the condition of Social Welfare Minister Shapiro.

The Proper Course

IN APPOINTING CHIEF JUSTICE Sloan to investigate the Sommers case the Provincial Government has acted wisely, though very late. The reputation of the royal commissioner and the broad terms of his commission would seem to assure a thorough inquiry into a situation which has long disturbed the people of British Columbia.

Now that the charges against Mr. Sommers are sub judice of the commissioner, acting with all the powers of a court, no further comment can be offered on them. But the public has every right to consider the peculiar position of Attorney-General Bonner.

Nearly two years ago Mr. Bonner was presented by Mr. Sturdy with all the documents, photostats, company records and other evidence which were later filed with the Supreme Court in Mr. Sommers' abortive libel suit.

At that time Mr. Bonner said that this information was not worth his consideration. He refused to act on it. Yet now Mr. Bonner finds that the same information is important enough for the consideration of British Columbia's chief jurist.

Why this sudden and complete change? The reason is obvious to everyone. Mr. Bonner has been driven to set up a royal commission by the pressure of an outraged public opinion after failing to fulfil his responsibilities as first law officer of the Crown for twenty-two months.

He acted only when he had no other option, when the Government realized—and doubtless told him by long-distance telephone—that the pressure for a full inquiry could be resisted no longer.

This record does Mr. Bonner and his chief, Mr. Bennett, no credit. It does great credit, however, to Mr. Sturdy.

Whether Mr. Sturdy's charges are true or not is a matter which cannot be discussed at the moment; but this young Vancouver lawyer—acting at his own expense, on his own time and against the strongest sort of resistance—has performed a great public service.

It is he mainly who has compelled the Government to change its policy of suppression. It is he who will bring before a royal commission a body of evidence which, whether true or not, deserved the fullest inquiry.

The public will thank Mr. Sturdy for his courageous action as a citizen and it will also thank the Opposition parties which struggled so long and persistently for the sort of inquiry now assured under Chief Justice Sloan.

The royal commissioner requires, of course, and no doubt will take all the time necessary for the fullest investigation. No one has the right to hurry him and everyone knows that, apart from his ability as a lawyer, he has a wide and unique experience as an investigator.

It is natural that he should be reluctant, as Mr. Bennett says, to undertake this work immediately after his long and laborious study of forestry problems. Moreover, he is now called upon to consider, in another aspect, the very system of forest management licences which he devised in the first place. Under these circumstances his reluctance is easily understood.

The important thing is that he approaches his task with an unequalled knowledge of that system, with no political bias, with all the independence and the public confidence inherent in his high office and in his own personal record.

But if the Chief Justice from now on will act precisely as he sees fit, it is earnestly to be hoped that he can complete his inquiry before the Legislature convenes early in the new year.

The Legislature alone can decide in the end what shall be done as a result of the commissioner's report and deserves to receive the report as early as conveniently possible.

For clearly the Legislature will be unable to act on Chief Justice Sloan's earlier report, concerning the whole forest policy of British Columbia, and cannot reconsider some existing forest management licences until it knows whether abuses have occurred, and if so why, in the administration of that policy.

Thus all action on basic forest problems must stand in abeyance until the new inquiry is completed. It should not take very long.

The Right of Dissolution

THE OTTAWA CORRESPONDENTS report, as if it were a new discovery, that Mr. Diefenbaker would not be entitled to a dissolution of Parliament and a snap election at this time. Of course he would not. Who ever supposed that a prime minister, without a vote of confidence from Parliament, had the right to dissolve it?

This question was settled finally, so far as Canada is concerned, in the famous constitutional issue of 1925 and 1926.

After the 1925 election Mr. MacKenzie King was approximately in the position of Mr. Diefenbaker. He had no majority in Parliament. But he believed, as he told Lord Byng, the Governor-General, that when he met Parliament he would receive the support of Progressive and other cross-bench members and would get a vote of confidence.

So it turned out. The King Government secured a series of confidence votes, even though the Conservatives were the largest party in the House.

Having thus established his control of Parliament, and not before, Mr. King held that he was entitled to a dissolution when he asked it of Lord Byng. The Governor-General refused Mr. King a dissolution and called in Mr. Meighen, who was promptly defeated in the House and was then granted dissolution.

When Mr. King argued in the campaign of 1926 that the Governor-General and Mr. Meighen had violated the constitution by refusing a dissolution to an established prime minister, the electorate agreed with him and swept the Liberals back to power.

But Mr. King could not have made this argument, he could not have been granted a dissolution and would not have asked for it unless he had first received a vote of confidence.

Mr. Diefenbaker cannot ask for a dissolution at the moment because he has not yet received a vote of confidence. He has been assured Liberal support but, constitutionally, this assurance is a very different thing from a parliamentary vote, which will test and record his strength.

Such a vote will not be long delayed. As soon as the present debate on the Speech from the Throne is complete the customary motion will be put by the Government and it will no doubt carry by a large majority.

Then Mr. Diefenbaker will be established as the Queen's advisor beyond all question. At any time, after that, he can seek and must be granted a dissolution at his convenience.

These are the constitutional safeguards of a system which vests in the prime minister, and him alone as an individual, the right to call an election. The practical question in politics, of course, is when Mr. Diefenbaker will call an election.

Within a few days, or weeks at most, he should be in a position to call it whenever he pleases. It will be surprising if he does not appeal to the country sooner rather than later. And thus in postponing its leadership convention until January, when it could have organized its affairs this autumn, the Liberal Party is taking grave political chances, a calculated risk.

Mr. Diefenbaker alone, without even consulting his cabinet, can decide whether that risk was well or foolishly calculated.

Pat on the Back

YOUTH APPRECIATION WEEK, to be observed throughout North America starting Monday, will provide a pleasant antidote to the prevalent criticism of young folks, the great majority of whom suffer because of the notoriety of a very small proportion of their number.

Local service clubs will name and honor selected young people of this community, who by their personal accomplishments or general good citizenship have earned the appreciation of their fellowman. This is an excellent move and might well become an annual observance. Public recognition of good conduct can do much to counteract the surface attraction which anti-social behavior holds for a misguided few.

The adult clubs are to be congratulated for their backing of the plan to give a pat on the back to our youth, rightly described by Mayor Scurrah as "the greatest single asset we have."

TURNING THE PAGES

By B. A. TOBIN

The Times and 'The Times'

FRESH news is the only kind the newsboys can sell, but by actual experience a lot of it hasn't got the attraction for readers that old news has. The average reader of fresh news usually demands at least a minimum of comfort while reading if the newspaper is going to hold his attention. But who hasn't stooped in a stuffy dark cupboard, teetered on tiptoes on a ladder to the top shelf, or almost frozen in a damp basement reading—with an absorption that denies all physical discomfort—some long-dead fragment of a newspaper?

In cleaning out a little-used drawer you notice that the newspaper covering the bottom is dated July 21, 1923. Quickly your eyes run over the fading paragraphs, noting with deepening interest the far-off events of the day, squinting at the fantastic prices in the advertisements, crinkling in amusement at the muddy-looking pictures. Gad, you think, I remember that; I recognize that name; so that's how the street looked then!

Or some day, burrowing into the farther reaches of an attic or down in the dark end of the basement, you come across a goldmine of outmoded information. The strange thing is that the older the paper the more interesting and fresh its news becomes.

Living History

A March 11, 1906, edition, yellowed and ragged at the edges, can hold you entranced for an hour while you delve into dispatches from England, re-light some political skirmish of the day, and find that by our present-day standards they practically gave away men's suits, meals and bottles of imported alcohol.

Archives material carries a fascination far beyond its interest at the time of publication. The dusty old journal portrays a life that is enough like ours today to be recognizable, but unlike enough to stir astonishing contrasts.

The same types of people you know as your neighbors today appear in whiskers, tail coats, sweeping dresses, expressing largely the same thoughts, emotions, likes and hates. Their horse-and-buggy background has been replaced by jet planes, "their local or national viewpoints have been expanded to global proportions in our own times, but the individuals themselves have undergone no basic change.

They in their day, as we in our day, appealed to patriotism, denounced political opponents, sought to raise money, sentenced murderers, fought wars, suffered from rheumatism and kidney ailments (according to the advertisements), and turned out in their finery to dances, sports events and the theatre.

To read an old newspaper is to look into a cobwebby mirror to see ourselves.

Too Ill for House?

There is a great deal of mystery about the Sommers-Sturdy case. Just how long is Mr. Sommers going to continue as member for Rossland-Trail?

He has had a doctor issue a certificate saying that his condition is such that he cannot stand the stresses and strains involved in a court appearance. Then how can he stand up to what sometimes passes for debate in our Legislative Assembly? His wife assures us that he is a very sick man. If this is so someone should replace him immediately in the Legislature so that his constituents can be properly represented.

'MERE VOTER'

Where They Live

I would like to ask you the following questions:

Do you consider it just and right to force a senior citizen to live in comparative poverty in Canada if, by being allowed to live elsewhere, the few remaining years of his or her life, security, peace, simple comfort and protection could be gained? The few that would want to go should not be denied.

I understand both Great Britain and the U.S.A. allow their pensioners to live where they please. Do you consider it is wise on the part of proud, wealthy and extremely prosperous Canada to do otherwise?

Would you like to try living on $35 or $75 per month for a few weeks? Please do then let us hear from you again?

Do you think it is right for democratic Canada to deny her senior citizens the privilege which is accorded to highly-paid judges, civil servants and members of the armed forces?

Have you ever given consideration to the fact that Canada would be in pocket by allowing her OAPs to live where they please? In this connection I refer to the substantial savings that would accrue by being relieved of the heavy hospital, medical, surgical and welfare expenses inseparable, in most cases, from the aged. All branches of government would benefit thereby—federal, provincial and municipal.

Panoramic Park

The plea for a panoramic park on the Pacific Coast salt water section of Vancouver Island lends itself not only to the imagination of Canadians but would be of inestimable value in a tourist sense. No salt water park of national scope is unbelievable for British Columbia, with Vancouver Island the jewel of the Pacific.

We on Vancouver Island represent the sunset and evening star of those who not only live among us but who come from afar.

If we cannot set aside now, while we have the chance, the parkland-of-promise which eternally beckons unto man and finds deep in itself not only solitude, solace and communion but the common meeting place of hearts and flowers, souls and shrubs, trees and foliage of the yesterday's, today's and tomorrow's, we fall in anticipating our inheritance.

The positive powers will do well to pause, ponder and pass upon all that relates to the growing and universal appreciation of the life-giving attractions of nature's oceanic reaches.

Now is the time to put oil in our lamps if we would enter into our just apportionments before too late. Remember the call of the coast echoes the ever-green entitlements of eternity.

Parable of Talents

When St. Andrews Church in Plymouth was blitzed in Second World War it was impossible to hold services there, but the promise that the Church in every sense of the word would remain active was given by the placing of a board with 'Resurgam' on it on a door.

The structural restoration is completed, now it requires re-furnishing. The Vicar has instituted a scheme whereby members and friends of the church are given a 'talent' 2/6 (two shillings and sixpence) to utilize to bring increase.

I am using mine for postage on letters to various papers across Canada appealing to those who come from the S.W. of England, also those who visited the locality or were stationed here during the war, in fact all and sundry who are interested, to help me to reap a rich harvest for the benefit of our historical church.

To those who may not be able to slip a note or cheque in an envelope, coins may be scotch-taped to a paper. When all is gathered in, acknowledgment will be made through papers carrying this appeal.

Thank you for your kind co-operation. HEATHER BLACKER S.R.N., 192 Beacon Park Road, Peverell, Plymouth, England.

'Faith'

Apparently some of your readers, according to their letters, feel that God has been eliminated, on account of Sputnik.

I feel that the Russian scientists placed a great faith in the elements to support their 'Sputnik'—elements which they did not produce or set forth.

I feel that faith will always and ever be the Saviour of the human race. I have here set in rhyme something to that effect.

A man's no bigger than his faith. That lubricant of life.

Ambition can be but a wraith. That leads to ruin and to strife.

But having faith: How can you lose If you don't believe, You do not choose

So the standard of your measure's been

Your faith in God—your faith in men For all your charts, your plans, your schemes

Without real faith, are silly dreams If you have faith in deeds you do

You'll find good spirits backing you. An evil deed, you'll surely find,

Is never urged by faith-filled mind. So long as homes are filled with love

The emblem of faith must shine above. Humbly I say, heartfelt and true:

If you have no "faith"—I pity you.

FROM WARSAW

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Old Orders and New

IN this strange city where the flame of freedom still boldly flickers almost in the shadow of the Kremlin, one finds oneself oddly haunted by the memory of Prince Metternich, of all people. He was not a fool although he looked one.

This vain, painted, astute defender of Europe's old order, "the principle of legitimacy," meaning the right to rule of those who have always ruled, was the motto on Metternich's battle standard. Under that standard he fought his long rearguard action for monarchy and aristocracy, against nineteenth century Europe's new order of capitalism and democracy.

Ironically, one remembers Metternich because "the principle of legitimacy" can also be seen from Warsaw, inscribed upon the banners of none other than Nikita Khrushchev.

Khrushchev too is fighting for an old order, the rule of the Soviet Union by the appointed apparatus-priesthood of the sacred Communist Party. And the dismissal of Marshal Zhukov as Soviet Defence Minister looks very much like one outcome of Khrushchev's fight.

There is the authentic story of Khrushchev's greeting to Marshal Rokossovsky at the moment of crisis in Warsaw in October a year ago. To the Soviet viceroy of rebellious Poland, Khrushchev's first words, "You are not a marshal but a (word utterly unprintable)."

There is the further fact that Zhukov brought back the dishonored Rokossovsky from Poland to Moscow and made him vice-minister of defence. And before he was dismissed as defence minister, Zhukov placed this same Rokossovsky in command of the Soviet armies in the Caucasus.

Surely it means something that Zhukov's first intervention in Khrushchev's Turkish crisis was giving the vital border command to a man who must have been at least strongly inclined to take orders from Zhukov rather than Khrushchev.

In so doing, Zhukov may have initiated his own downfall. In any case, Khrushchev and "the principle of legitimacy" seem to have triumphed again, at least for a time. Khrushchev has triumphed in part thanks to the active support now being given him by those natural legitimists, the leaders of the Communist parties here in Poland, in Yugoslavia, and elsewhere beyond Russia's borders. But Khrushchev and legitimacy have certainly faced a serious challenge, and may do so again.

(1957 N.Y. Herald Tribune Inc.)

Like Metternich, Khrushchev is resisting the emergence of a new order, in the form of the Soviet Union's massive new classes of officers in the armed services and industrialists and agriculturalists and scientists and other able men in positions of authority, who are party members but not appointed Communist priests.

These huge social classes were formed by Joseph Stalin as humble servants of the Soviet state. While Stalin's terror endured, their humility was over.

But now the terror is ended, and the question arises whether the state's servants will become the state's masters. The question has taken human form in the person of Marshal Zhukov, the first Soviet citizen ever to achieve full membership in the sacred Party Presidium without rising through the ranks of the apparatus-priesthood.

It is a useful corrective to picture the strange movements in the Kremlin in this manner. Before he was relieved as defence minister, Zhukov had certainly attained vast power. He had in his hands the great lever of power of control of the Soviet armed forces, and quite possibly the further enormous lever of substantive control of the Soviet police.

But Zhukov's dismissal is a reminder that legitimacy, which Khrushchev has had on his side as head of the Communist Party apparatus, is also a most important source of power in all societies.

In Anger From a Native Son

INTO this office comes a steady flow of letters to the editor whose writers ask that their pen-names be printed. Such letters are considered for publication if their authors identify themselves to the newspaper. If no signature is attached at all, they are not used.

On my desk lies a letter of that type, signed only "Native Son." It contains a cry of uncomprehending resentment that should be heard.

Why, its writer, wants to know, were two small Indian children allowed to die in their blazing home when modern fire-fighting equipment remained in its station a short distance away?

No explanation that the burning home lay outside the jurisdiction of the fire department will provide an acceptable answer to the writer. He knows that two infants perished in flames on the Indian reserve. Nearby was equipment which might have knocked down the fire—the same equipment that was nearby when other homes have burned on the Indian reserve.

POINTS OVERLOOKED

"Native Son" overlooks the fact that the men who staff the fire department could not know that two small lives were at stake when flames raced through the wooden building. He would scarcely deny them the simple human instinct to help small children, had they known. He can see only the result and he is embittered.

He is soured on the whiteman's ways. He does not want to be enfranchised and achieve full citizenship, which he sees only as a means of easier access to "rot gut" liquor.

He wants fire protection for his home and the homes of his neighbours. He wants higher recompense from the whiteman for the land the whiteman took from his forbears. He wants some of the advantages of what passes in our society for civilization. He wants education for the young children of the reserve.

He dismisses the suggestion that the Indian should work toward his own improvement. He assumes that the improvements white people think he should seek should be his as a matter of right if he wants them, because his people were here first and have been dispossessed.

The letter contains the inconsistencies of a person who is angry, who has seen tragedy and who seeks someone to blame for it. It is a letter that should arouse compassion in anyone.

STIRRING COMPASSION

His protest is not one to be answered by cold reason. It would serve no purpose to point out that children have died from fire before the whiteman came to this part of the world. It would be valueless to argue that a modern fire department, even one which did not give service to the reserve, could scarcely have been anywhere near the area if whiteman's settlement had not led to the establishment of such an up-to-date department.

Without influence on him, in the state of mind which produced the letter, would be the argument that fire departments stand by for calls from those who pay for the service—and cannot stand by when they are elsewhere at fires outside their jurisdictions.

He knows that two children died. No explanatory logic can prevail over that fact. And in expressing his resentment he has indirectly emphasized the responsibility facing the whiteman. That is a responsibility not merely to help protect the lives of young children, but to help the Indian to realize the extent of the responsibilities he faces.

These are obligations probably thrust upon the native by the civilization which has superseded his own. But they exist. And members of any society survive only by their ability to adopt themselves to conditions which they cannot change.

UN CORRESPONDENCE

By CHARLES LYNCH

Events Snarl Agenda

NEW YORK—Statesmen, like editors, have orderly minds—they like their great events to come in single file, rather than abreast. They resent any tendency of these events to overlap, as happened at the last General Assembly when the Middle East and Hungarian crises became intertwined in messy fashion.

In the last two weeks, the focus of the assembly has shifted rapidly from one event to another. Disarmament started out as the number one item; then Little Rock, Ark., became the prime topic of conversation. If not of debate, then along came Sputnik, with overtones of disarmament. The Soviet earth satellite seemed to be in for a long run, but it was quickly shouldered away from the bar and the rostrum by the crisis between Syria and Turkey.

But the new crisis picked a bad time to hold the assembly in its grip, because it in turn had to stand aside for Queen Elizabeth II, whose visit to this headquarters put everything else in the shade.

Her noble shadow still endures here, but in the wake of her visit the delegates are trying to get the assembly back on the rails—wondering all the while what new surprises the Fates may have in store. They are dusting off the almost-neglected disarmament debate which is supposed to be their main business, trying to inject some new life in it, trying to revive the hopes many delegations still hold that something positive will be achieved.

RUDE NOISES

The Russians, meanwhile, keep pounding away on the crisis between Syria and Turkey, insisting that peace and the fate of the world may well hang in the balance. But the manner in which this "crisis" was made to mark time during the Queen's visit only served to strengthen Western suspicions that the crisis-talk of the Russians has more to do with propaganda than with peace.

The reaction of the Soviet delegation to the Royal Visit here was quite remarkable. Three days before she came, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko was making rude noises—he virtually accused assembly president Sir Leslie Munro of being more concerned with the Queen than with the business of the assembly, which at that moment was Syria's complaint against Turkey.

Sir Leslie denied the charge—though it was pretty apparent at that time that he would much rather have been in Washington than in New York. Sir Leslie is also New Zealand's ambassador to the United States and as such was officially and emotionally involved with the Royal doings in the U.S. capital. On one day, he made two return flights between New York and Washington, trying to attend to his assembly duties here and his ambassadorial functions there.

When Sir Leslie replied hotly that everything possible was being done to expedite the Syrian-Turkish business, Mr. Gromyko replied: "You seem to have convinced yourself—you have not convinced us."

In the wake of that exchange, some observers would not have been surprised had the Soviets proposed that the ceremonial assembly session for the Queen on Monday be converted into a business session to consider the Syrian complaint.

HIT WITH RUSS

In the event, they did nothing of the kind. Indeed, they seemed to enjoy the Royal Visit as much as anybody. So many Soviet delegates showed up for the Queen that they had to sit two to a seat—and they applauded her without reserve. A representative of the Tass News Agency was so carried away that he presented Russian dolls to female representatives of the Commonwealth press here, saying "This is your day, and you should enjoy it to the full." Next day, of course, Mr. Gromyko was roaring louder than ever about Syria, and had another go at the harassed Sir Leslie.

Nothing more pleasant than the Royal Visit is likely to happen during this assembly session; even delegates of countries that have no diplomatic ties with the United Kingdom seemed to revel in it.

One cannot help wondering what would happen if a Royal Visit could be arranged to some of the unconverted countries—what would be the effect of such a visit to Russia? Frightful thought, perhaps, but we suspect that it would be a roaring success, and would bring more warmth to Red Square than was felt on the night of the Sputnik.

Man Admits Possessing Stolen Plywood

Bert Baker, 2709 Fifth, pleaded guilty in Saanich police court Thursday to a charge of possessing stolen lumber and was remanded to Nov. 7 for a probation report and sentence.

Police said he was checked the night of Oct. 22 with 6½ sheets of plywood on his car. Next morning Van-Isle Moulding & Millwork Ltd., 5117 Del Monte, reported theft overnight of 6½ sheets of plywood, valued at $18.

A search of Baker's property at Sooke uncovered the plywood.

The Thrill That Comes Once in a Lifetime

Trip 'Great Joy' Queen Declares

LONDON (Reuters) — The Queen's visit to the United States, read at the closing of the present session of Parliament, said today the Queen found it a great joy "to see again my people in Canada."

The speech also said the Queen's visit to the United States strengthened her conviction "that the ties which bind our peoples are strong and enduring."

The reference to the Queen's visit to North America last month came at the start of the speech which outlined what the government had done in the last year.

The speech said: "A few days ago I returned to London with my dear husband on the conclusion of a short stay in Canada and a visit to the United States."

WAS GREAT JOY

"It was a great joy to me to have this opportunity to see again my people in Canada, to open the Canadian Parliament and to renew my personal experience of that great and developing Commonwealth country."

"I was also happy to pay, at President Eisenhower's invitation, a second visit to the United States, and to meet members of the United States government, Congress and the Supreme Court."

"Everywhere I received a most warm and friendly welcome. My visit has further convinced me that the ties which bind our peoples are strong and enduring."

The speech also recalled with pleasure the reception accorded the Queen and Prince Philip by United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld and by the General Assembly during her visit to New York.

RECALLS LONDON MEET

It also gave the Queen "great pleasure" to meet with the prime ministers and other representatives of Commonwealth countries in London at the end of June.

"Their meeting, at which they reviewed all the major international issues of the day which were of common concern to their countries, revealed a broad similarity of approach and purpose," the speech said.

The session closed by the speech saw the replacement of Sir Anthony Eden as prime minister by Harold Macmillan, the rift in British-American relations over the British-French invasion of Egypt and the subsequently successful efforts to restore the ties between London and Washington.

It also saw a developing conflict between the government and the opposition over wage claims and the rising cost of living and a series of setbacks for the Conservatives in by-elections.

The speech made almost no reference to these explosive topics.

GORDON REPORT

Big Boom Predicted For Chemical Trade

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's dynamic, century-old chemical industry may undergo a five-fold expansion in the next 25 years with the Canadian market expanding to absorb possibly $6,000,000,000 worth of these chemicals a year.

This tremendous upsurge, predicted in a special study prepared for the Gordon economic commission, may be accompanied by a growth in "giantism" in the industry, with more and more production concentrated in the hands of big corporations.

About one-half of the present $1,000,000,000 industry is owned by United States investors.

The 182-page study, prepared by energy expert John Davis, the commission's associate research director, predicted that over the years the relative flow of exports and imports of chemicals may be reduced with Canadian producers increasing their share of the Canadian market.

Imports which currently share about 25 per cent of the Canadian market may get only 20 per cent in 1980. Exports, now amounting to some 19 per cent of Canadian production, may drop to 12 per cent.

EUROPEAN ADVANTAGE

"Western European countries, including Germany, with their lower real wage rates, their great technical competence, their willingness to take soft currencies in payment and the strength which comes from serving a well-protected domestic market, offer a threat to Canada's potential overseas markets which cannot be ignored."

And while Canada's tariff structure appears to ensure that the home market will be protected to some extent for domestic producers of consumer chemicals, Mr. Davis estimated that U.S. tariffs on chemicals are generally higher than those in Canada.

"As the U.S. tariff on chemicals is unlikely to undergo substantial revision during the course of the next decade or so, the majority of Canadian producers must confine their attention to selling in the Canadian market or exporting overseas."

"At home, they will probably encounter considerable competition from U.S. and other foreign sources."

Heart Attack Preventive Tried

CLEVELAND (AP) — A New York doctor said Thursday his studies indicate he has found a possible method of preventing heart attacks and hardening of the arteries—the No. 1 killer in the United States.

Dr. Leo Gitman reported his finding to the 10th annual meeting of the Gerontological Society. Gerontology is the study of old age.

Gitman said his research still is in the early experimental stage. "It's far too early," he said, "to even consider the use of our method on any wide basis on human beings."

The method, he said, involves the control of fat in blood. Too much blood fat generally is recognized as the main condition related to heart attacks and hardening of the arteries.

Gitman's studies, which were carried on with humans and animals, indicate that "by giving Vitamin E in very large doses we could reduce the level of blood fat in a high percentage of cases in humans."

The most readily available source of vitamin E, he said, is wheat germ oil.

The 74,500-member B.C. Automobile Association announced Thursday that it is planning to promote the caravan project through co-operation with affiliated motor clubs in western Canada and the United States.

"Anything that helps to make centennial year a success will receive our endorsement," George I. Warren, publicity commissioner and secretary of Victoria Auto Club said today.

250,000 PROTEST IN JAPAN

TOKYO (Reuters) — About 250,000 Japanese students today staged protest rallies throughout the country against nuclear bomb tests carried out by the United States, Britain and Russia.

More than 30,000 persons meeting at Tokyo's Hibiya Park called for an "immediate and unconditional ban" on such tests.

Meantime, Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi today pledged unremitting efforts by his government to secure a nuclear test suspension.

More than 5,000 night school students, some carrying effigies of British Prime Minister Macmillan, Thursday night clashed with police who intervened in their "ban the bomb" demonstrations.

Cross-Bow Sportsman Would Hunt Here

An enterprising San Francisco sportsman wants to spend a week on an Indian reservation on Vancouver Island and go hunting with a cross-bow.

He says his bolts would be reserved for predatory animals, such as cougars and porcupine, and for small rodents.

In a letter to Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau, Henry D. Lombardo asks how he can get permission both to stay on an Indian reservation and to use his cross-bow.

"I am willing to abide by the local hunting and game regulations," Mr. Lombardo said, adding that he hopes to visit the Island within the next two weeks.

Publicity Commissioner George I. Warren has referred Mr. Lombardo's request to the Indian Department and the B.C. Game Commission.

NO THREAT AT PRESENT SAYS EXPERT

CHICAGO (UP) — A nuclear health expert said today that radioactive fallout does not constitute a serious biological threat now—or in the foreseeable future.

But Dr. Thomas L. Shipman warned that "should the rate of weapon testing be materially increased or should we acquire fission products in our environment from some other source, the situation could easily become critical."

Dr. Shipman, who is director of the University of Chicago's Radiation Physics Department, said that the rate of weapon testing has been increased since the end of the war, but that the situation is not yet critical.

Smith Fights Fire Hall Until Merger Vote Held

A new main firehall for Victoria will be opposed by Ald. J. Donald Smith until voters have expressed themselves on the question of amalgamation.

He told a special council meeting Thursday firehall plans should be dropped until there is a referendum on whether a Royal Commission should be asked to probe amalgamation benefits.

Council is already on record in support of a new hall. It also has voted to earmark $325,000 for the project and has decided it should be built on the site of the present hall and market building.

Since that time, fire wardens committee has rejected the present site because of its narrow access and its potential value for other uses. Council will be asked to nullify support of the present site.

If council can change its opinion on the site, it can change its opinion on rebuilding at present, said Ald. Smith.

"I am opposed to the expenditure of any more of the taxpayers' money until the people have expressed an opinion on amalgamation," he said.

An earlier motion by Ald. Smith, asking up to $45,000 be spent for a Royal Commission, has been referred to a committee of Saanich and Victoria council members.

Ald. Smith said if Esquimalt and Oak Bay wished to join in the study they should share costs on a per capita basis.

Ald. Smith said any new firehall should be constructed in the northern part of the city.

Ald. Curtis said to keep insurance rates low it must be built within three-quarters of a mile of the high value area of the city.

He said the waterworks yard at Pandora and Chambers had been considered as a suitable site, but an expenditure of $40,000 would be required to level the site before it could be used.

He said use of the present site of Yates Street firehall would mean purchase of additional land.

Long-range plans, he said, are for a change in location of the Burnside Hall to Rock Bay Avenue, where it would give protection to Victoria West and Industrial Reserve areas, compensating for the longer run if the main hall were on Central Junior High School grounds.

THIRD TRY

Ald. Curtis advised council of a meeting with Greater Victoria School Board Tuesday at City Hall at 8 p.m. His committee is making a third attempt at obtaining a strip of the junior high grounds, facing Ormond Street, for the new hall.

Ald. Hugh Ramsay said, regardless of Ald. Smith's views, council should be unanimous in VANCOUVER (CP)—Irish sweepstake officials said Thursday the $28,000 winnings of a four-year-old Donna Patricia Aubert of Vancouver will be paid into a trust fund.

In a telephone interview from Dublin, a sweepstake official told a Vancouver newspaper: "There should be absolutely no trouble in the transaction. It is just a matter of placing the child's money into a trust. We only pay to the person identified as the ticket holder. Donna's money will be held until she is 21. Her parents would require Supreme Court permission obtain any of the money on the child's behalf."

Victoria Chamber of Commerce gets its fair share of bouquets and brickbats from departed visitors.

At the moment the bouquets seem to exceed the brickbats.

Mrs. W. J. Kall of Parma, Ohio, has written to the Chamber commending Victoria storekeepers for their courtesy in general and their honesty in particular.

As an example of honesty, she mentions a Government Street clothing store which forwarded on a valuable parcel she left on their counter while shopping in Victoria. H. McLaren of Buffalo, New York, writes thanking Victoria storekeepers for their courtesy and helpfulness. "I have since been in Florida," he said, "but still think Victoria was the best part of my travels."

Regals Miss Treat

Fashway's Pair Sparks Royals' Prairie Victory

By The Canadian Press
Saskatoon-St. Paul Regals lost a chance to grab a first-place tie with Winnipeg Warriors in the Prairie Division of the Western Hockey League Thursday when Halloween hockey players in New Westminster Royals costumes tricked them 6-2 in Saskatoon.

The win boosted the Royals past the idle Seattle Americans in the Coast Division and left them a single point behind the leading Vancouver Canucks.

Regals trail second-place Edmonton Flyers and Calgary Stampeders by one point.

New Westminster forward Gordie Fashway, who has made a habit of collecting 30 goals a season since he joined the club a few years back, scored his seventh and eighth of the year.

Art Jones, Arnie Schmutz, Ollie Dorohoy and Arlo Goodwin shared the balance. Bill Voss scored twice for Regals.

NEW FLYERS STAR

New Westminster travels to Edmonton for a game tonight. The Flyers will dress Dennis Olson, who played for Royals last year and for Seattle until this week. Olson, WHL rookie of the year in 1957, has twice scored winning goals against his old mates this season while in Seattle livery.

He came to the Flyers from the parent National Hockey League Detroit Red Wings in the player switch that sent Guy Fiedler from the NHL to Seattle.

On the coast, Seattle Americans will try to make even an unlucky number for Vancouver. The Canucks have been undefeated in six games, with only a tie with the Americans spoiling a perfect mark. Guy Fiedler's return may do it for Keith Allen's Americans.

Fiedler, leading scorer in the league last year, will hook up in a duel with Vancouver's ace centre Phil Maloney. Guy's debut this season, two weeks late, leaves him 10 points behind the Canucks centre at the start. Phil has collected five goals and five assists in Vancouver's six games.

Isn't It Stretching Things Bit Too Far?

By DON WEISS
NEW YORK (AP) — Nowadays, when a football coach tells his players to gird for action, he means it literally. If you haven't noticed something new in U.S. college and professional football it's because you haven't been in a locker room lately.

The thing hailed by those hulking head-knockers as close to a revolutionary innovation in the sport of brutes is you should excuse the expression—a girdle.

Those in the know claim more than 90 per cent of today's weekend heroes encase themselves in the garment. Mama has competition.

Let's hasten to assure that the two-way stretch serves a much, more functional purpose than assisting in the bulge battle, although style plays a part.

The football girdle was developed to replace the

BALDING BRILLIANT

Al's Secret: Borrow Irons

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UP)—The best way to shoot a good round of golf these days is to (1) either get sick or injured; or (2) borrow a set of clubs.

Al Balding, the Canadian pro who isn't bald at all but has a beautiful head of wavy hair, proved it again Thursday when he shaved eight strokes from par on a rain-soaked course to gain the half-way lead in the $20,000 San Diego open tournament.

Balding, one of Canada's top exports in the golfing world (now playing out of Miami Beach, Fla.) shot a 64 to go with an opening round of 67 for a 131 total—13 under par for 36 holes.

GAVE CLUBS AWAY

"It was the best round I've ever played," said Al after his game. "And it is surprising. I played in those international matches in Tokyo last week and after we were finished, I gave all my irons away to U.S. servicemen there."

"So I borrowed a set from a local club member and I never hit better iron shots in my life." Al, from Toronto, had nine birdies and a single bogey. With the borrowed putter he knocked in putts of 50 and 30 feet on par-three holes to gain the margin he needed.

In second place, tied with 135 scores were Fred Hawkins and Arnold Palmer. Hawkins' hot putter on the last three holes tanked putts of 14, 20 and 20 feet and kept him in the running. Palmer had a real hot round of 68—including a ball knocked out of bounds.

"It was the only bad shot I've made in the 36 holes we've played," said Palmer. "I was five under par at the time and tried to thread a needle. It didn't work."

CALIFORNIA WEATHER

The second round was played in miserable conditions. It rained and the course was soggy and it was cold—unusual in San Diego for this time of year. But 39 shot-makers cracked par and 13 shot 69 or better.

At 135 were Masters Champion Doug Ford, Billy Casper, a home-town hero; Don Whit, slender young pro from Alameda, Calif.; and Charles Sifford, the Negro champion from Philadelphia. The 136 shot-makers included long-hitting George Bayer, Mike Fitchick, Bob Rosburg, Dow Finsterwald and Dale Anderson.

Following the 18 holes today, there will be an 18-hole pro-am celebrity tournament Saturday that doesn't count in the standings. The final 18 holes will be played on Sunday.

Heavy Action For Hoop Clubs

A full slate of activity will feature Inter-High School Basketball League action at Mount View and Victoria High gymnasiums tonight.

St. Louis College, which opened its schedule with a 38-22 triumph over University School on Thursday, meets Mount Douglas in the Mount View gym at 7:30. Second half of the scheduled twin bill will put Esquimalt against Mount View. University School will play Belmont at 7:30 and the Totems tangle with Oak Bay at 8:45 in contests on the Vic High floor.

SIGHT IN ONE EYE LOST BUT CHUCK WILL RETURN

NORTH BAY, Ont. (BUP) — Playing-coach Chuck Scherza of the North Bay Trappers will lose the sight of his left eye, but is anxious to rejoin his team.

Scherza was hit by a hockey stick last Saturday night during an Ontario Hockey Association-Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior A series game against Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen.

He was flown to Boston but doctors there said the lens was so badly damaged that an operation would be of no use.

However, Mrs. Scherza reported today that despite the injury her husband "should be ready to return in a couple of weeks."

The 34-year-old player-coach played with Boston Bruins and New York Rangers of the National Hockey League and the American Hockey League's Providence Reds before joining the Trappers.

TOURNEY STARTS TONIGHT

Frank, Nick Join Quest for Title

Interest in the battle for the men's singles title in the Second Annual Invitational Open Badminton Tournament starting at Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club tonight increased today.

Tourney officials announced this morning that two highly-rated U.S. stars had joined the starry list of challengers for the crown currently held by Vancouver's Dave McTaggart.

Late entries have been received from Frank Pomeroy, American Thomas Cup star, who is now playing out of Fort Lewis, Wash., and Nick Johnston, 22-year-old Seattleite, who is considered one of Washington's brightest shuttle prospects.

STILL FAVORED

Despite the late entries, McTaggart, the Canadian champion, and Seattle's Don Davis, third-ranked in his country, are still favored to battle in the final for the second successive year.

Leading Canadian threat to the agile McTaggart is Bert Ferguson, of Vancouver, who is teamed with McTaggart to form the favored men's doubles duo.

In the women's singles division, the struggle for supremacy looks almost a toss-up between Victoria's Maureen Bray and veteran Claire Lovatt of Vancouver.

TURNED TABLES

Mrs. Lovatt defeated Miss Bray in a torrid three-game final last year, but the Victorian reversed the decision in an English tournament at Vancouver.

Also in the running for the women's title are Gladys Malory and Donna Connolly, a mother-and-daughter combination from Seattle who will play together in doubles competition.

Although the spotlight will be on the nationally-known shuttle experts, VLTBC officials have arranged a program that has drawn a large entry from players below the championship class.

Scheduled this year for the first time are events in "A," "B" and "C" classes which will enable club players to compete against players in their own divisions.

CANADIAN BOAT CRACKS WORLD MARK

Speed Record Falls

PICTON, Ont. (BUP) — A Canadian boat, Miss Supertest II, skimmed over a measured kilometer course off Picton at an average speed of 183.4 miles per hour today to set a new world record for unlimited speedboats.

Art Asbury, 36, of Oxtongue Lake, Ont., drove Miss Supertest to the new world mark on an off-shoot of the Bay of Quinte a few miles from Picton. Weather conditions were perfect, with the water merely rippled by a light breeze.

To win the unlimited class crown, the London, Ont., speedboat bettered the former world record of 178.997 miles per hour set by "Slow-Mo-

Shun IV of Seattle, Wash., in 1950 by well over four miles per hour.

Commodore J. Cole, referee for the race for the Canadian Boating Federation, approved the record. The federation also had six timers holding stop watches on Asbury, who twice covered the course at the 183.4 miles per hour record.

It was the first time in North America that a speedboat record has been set over a one-kilometer course. Slow-Mo-Shun set the previous mark on a one-mile course.

It was Miss Supertest's third crack at the record. In 1953, after recording 182 miles per hour on her first run, Miss Supertest threw a piston rod. Last year, while clocking 196 miles per hour, part of her hull was smashed when she hit a log.

Miss Supertest also holds the British Empire and Canadian speed record for propeller-driven craft—154.845 MPH set in 1955 at this town, 15 miles southeast of Belleville on Lake Ontario.

Miss Supertest is 31 feet long, 12 feet wide and weighs 6,000 pounds. Her Rolls-Royce Griffon liquid-cooled engines develop 2,000 horsepower. She is owned by J. Gordon Thompson of London, Ont.

Leafs Look Good Like Habs Should

Bounce Back At Montreal For 3-1 Win

By The Canadian Press

They may win nothing else, but Toronto Maple Leafs should be awarded this year's clouded crystal ball as the National Hockey League's most unpredictable team.

Two nights ago Leafs lost, 6-2, to Montreal Canadiens in Toronto and looked just as bad as the score indicates. Thursday night, in the hostile Montreal Forum, they slammed in three second-period goals and licked the league's best team 3-1.

Meanwhile, in Boston, New York Rangers, who have been making all the experts look bad since the season opened, became the first team in 43 games to shut out the Bruins on home ice with a 3-0 victory that consolidated their hold on second place, three points behind Montreal.

UP AND DOWN CLUB

Leafs, in last place with a 3-6 record, have been up and down, but mostly down, since the season opened. After losing three in a row they beat Boston 7-0 and started Bruins on a five-game losing streak. They lost two more then turned on the Rangers 3-0. Wednesday night they looked like a collection of second-raters, but Thursday night they were as good as any club in the league.

They spotted Canadiens' Maurice Richard's first-period goal, his 10th in as many games, then started the second with Billy Harris' goal, his fifth, at 5:32 and followed it with Bob Cullen's at 9:56 and Barry Cullen's at 12:19. Then they closed around goalie Ed Chadwick to protect their lead.

He responded magnificently with a diving, daring display that amazed 14,114 Montreal fans. During the evening he stopped 33 shots, 12 in each of the last two periods.

WORSLEY IN FORM

At Boston, too, it was goaltender's night, as little Lorne Worsley blocked 27 shots, 15 of them in a superb first-period display.

Worsley got his offensive help from Ranger captain Red Sullivan who beat Don Simmonds in the first and third periods. Andy Bathgate collected the other New York goal in the second period.

A crowd of 11,528 fans, frequently loudly disapproving, watched the spiralling Bruins lose their fifth consecutive game after winning the first four of the season.

At Montreal, Charlie Hodge of Montreal Royals, the Canadiens' Quebec Hockey League farm club, was once again in goal for Jacques Plante, out this time with an asthma attack. Hodge stopped 29 shots in a creditable display.

NO STOPPING ESKS

Just Call Them Record Wreckers

REGINA (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos, who have already broken six Western Interprovincial Football Union team records, established still another new mark in the last week and are almost certain to gain credit for one more when the regular schedule ends Saturday.

The newest record deals with most grounds plays in a season. Eskies have tried 680 rushing plays to surpass the old mark of 664 set by Winnipeg Blue Bombers last year.

Eskimos are averaging 6.08 yards a carry, a comfortable margin over their league record of 5.96 feet in 1956. Chances of the average dipping below last year's mark are slim with the club having only one game remaining in the schedule.

Other Edmonton records: Most points scored in one season, 452; net yards rushing, 4,134; total yards rushing, 4,313; total net yards from scrimmage, 6,597; total first downs, 377; first downs rushing, 258. Bombers are runners-up in total net from scrimmage with a gain of 5,152 yards. Saskatchewan Roughriders are third with 4,817. Calgary Stampeders have netted 4,748 and B.C. Lions 4,640.

Bombers also are second in the rushing department with a net gain of 3,501 yards. Lions have netted 2,255 yards. Riders 2,174 and Stamps 1,983. Bombers are averaging 5.4 yards on 643 carries, Lions 4.4 on 509, Riders 4.3 on 500 and Stamps 3.9 on 501.

Eskies have the best pass completion average, completing 56.1 per cent of 244 aeriels while Lions have the top punting average 42.6 yards on 124 kicks.

What's in a Name? Nothing Rules Judge

TORONTO (BUP) — An Ontario Supreme Court judge ruled Thursday that six race horses will keep their present names despite the objections of the Ontario Racing Commission that they are in "bad taste."

"The racing commission cannot decide what is in the interests of good or bad taste," said Justice F. H. Barlow in handing down his decision.

The horses, owned by William F. Morrissey, were said to be named to ridicule Morrissey's long-time race-rival and former owner of the Dufferin race track, Fred Orpen.

The names of the horses are Stole the Ring, Red Nose Clown, Irene's Orphan, Rabbit Mouth, Into the Grape and Hot Ice.

Defence counsel W. E. MacDonald told the court the names had not been chosen with Orpen in mind, and emphasized that the racing commission had originally approved them.

He charged that the forced changing would be "undue interference with the property of an individual" and argued that the commission had given no reasons for ordering the change.

FACING NAVY in final game of Victoria intermediate Canadian Football final at Macdonald Park Saturday afternoon will be Gib Forbes, powerful linebacker for Oak Bay Drakes, who took 167 decision in first game of total-point series. Winner will advance to B.C. final. Game time is 2 p.m.

Hong Kong Golf Hazards Left Fearless Fearful

HONG KONG (UP)—The guy who claimed that golf was a sissy game never played at the Royal Hong Kong Golf Club.

This may explain why a handsome moustached man named Kim Hall is colony champion for the second straight year. Because Kim was shot up and down over Trieste and he long ago learned that fear is a no-time thing.

As for old Fearless, you may now refer to me as old Fearful.

Because this is a course where leopards, cobras, tigers, bamboo snakes, guerrilla warfare, camouflaged soldiers, rumbling tanks and galloping horses are no more rare than double bogeys on the Fraley scorecard.

"Don't be surprised if we see a leopard," Kim said casually as he went a tee short whistling straight down the middle. "There's supposed to be one loose around here right now. Down from South China mountains y'know."

I did not know or I wouldn't have come.

"Nice straight tee shot," I quavered, spraying one into the rough.

"You have to be straight here," he replied. "Lots of snakes in the rough y'know."

I hadn't known. I hit a "mulligan."

Finally, on the fairway, I saw my ball laying atop a small hole and suggested that under winter rules I should be able to move it.

"By all means," Kim said. "But do it carefully. That's a bamboo snake hole and if one of those nips you, you're gone in three hours y'know."

I didn't know. But I was almost gone right then—back to the clubhouse.

Up ahead it looked as if there was a small clump of bushes screening the green. My harried approach shot made straight for the bushes—but the bushes moved aside.

"Yes, they moved," Kim chuckled. "It's troops practising camouflage war. They do that all the time around here. If they hadn't seen you, your ball probably would have made 'ping' when it hit one of their helmets."

I hurried forward to apologize to the "bushes" but they melted into a glade of trees and I saw they had screened a sandtrap. And there, so help me, was the ball—with a cobra sitting on it like a hen hatching an egg.

"You get a free lift in a case like this," said Kim. "Only thing is, you have to lift the snake first."

Playing a new ball, Ole Fearless dribbled it into the same trap and finally playing another ball made the green. Then just as I was about to putt, a man galloped over a rise down along the edge of the green and pelted off down the fairway to intercept a tank which rumbled into sight from the direction of the second green.

"Colonel So and So," said Kim casually. "Really loves horses y'know, but doesn't care a bit for golf."

Right about there the colonel had company. The only thing I hadn't seen after one hole was a leopard. We gave it up there and couldn't even play the 19th hole.

For at the Royal Hong Kong Golf Club, they really have two 19th holes—one from the 18th green to the men's clubhouse and the other to the ladies' clubhouse. But we made up for it on the 20th hole.

OUTDOOR REPORT BY Doug Peden

Usually by the time we get around to celebrating Halloween, the fishing chatter revolves around either grise and winter springs or trout and guessing the time when the first steelhead run will be along.

But with the November sheet exposed on the calendar this morning, coho salmon are still the main topic in tackle shop huddles.

Taking advantage of better-than average sessions of late-October weather, anglers have continued to take the scrappy silvers in many places around the Island and have probably been scoring most consistently at Cowichan Bay.

Pedder Bay and the Crofton area have both produced some good catches in the past week, but it is Cowichan that has been getting most attention among lower-Island waters.

Early-morning trolling has been the most productive at Cowichan during afternoon periods. Bucktail flies, especially the light blue and white and the green and white varieties, top the list of recommended lures, but some coho are also hitting other standard offerings.

Anglers are again able to operate in any section of Cowichan Bay. The partial closure, which closed off the river mouth to trolling, was lifted Wednesday.

Alex Johnston was one of those who boated a limit catch at Cowichan Thursday morning and Sid Harknett, using a blue and white bucktail, reeled in three bright silvers.

Paul Joncas took his limit before 10.30 Wednesday morning. Bill Martin also filled his four-salmon quota and Lee Hallberg and Mel Vance combined for a catch of five coho.

A few coho are also being taken in Saanich Inlet and at Deep Cove, where there has been little activity except on weekends.

Grise, of course, are abundant throughout the Inlet and a good number of anglers are filling their limits with jack springs, averaging around five pounds but occasionally tipping the scales at twice that weight.

Largest salmon reported at Saanich Inlet during the past week was the 11½-pound spring Tony Rosin hooked near Goldstream Island on a Wallace Highliner plug.

The Island elk season was the best we have had yet in the number of bulls taken, but there are some hunters who insist the season should start a couple of weeks later.

Main reason for their claim is the amount of elk meat that was spoiled before it reached a freezing plant. It is believed close to 1,000 pounds of elk meat that came out of the Shaw Creek area at Cowichan Lake had to be thrown away.

While warm weather was partially responsible, it is doubtful if a later shooting season would have made much difference. The biggest reason for the loss of potential steaks and roasts was that many hunters were hunting elk for the first time and had given little thought to what they would do if and when they downed a bull.

As a result, several elk were killed far from transportation by sportsmen who had made inadequate preparations for handling several hundred pounds of meat. It was a long, back-breaking struggle for many, and often a heart-breaking one when they learned that time had done its work and the meat was ruined.

In most cases, a later season would have made little difference. What was needed was more knowledge and preparation.

TIME OUT! JEFF HEATE

"I'm an absolute cinch to knock the bum out in the first round, boys, now that I've learned not to be over-confident in my fights!"

Bobby No Threat To Bulgy Archie

VANCOUVER (CP)—Archie Moore, world light-heavyweight champion, made it look easy Thursday night with a technical knockout over Bobby Mitchell of Omaha, Neb., at 1.45 of the fifth round of a scheduled 10-round non-title bout at Exhibition Gardens.

Moore weighed 192 pounds, 17 pounds over the light-heavyweight limit. Mitchell weighed 193.

Referee Bert Lowes stopped the fight after Mitchell had been sent to the canvas twice in the fifth round.

After the opening minute of the first round, the fight appeared a mis-match.

BIDDING HIS TIME Mitchell swarmed over Moore but Archie was just biding his time, continually catching Mitchell in the corner with sharp jabs and overhand rights and lefts.

Few of Mitchell's punches did any damage. Although the world champion was never in any trouble and forced the fight after the second round, Mitchell never stopped trying.

Mitchell waded in time after time only to be met with Moore's heavy and light artillery high on the head and ears.

His face was swollen and his right eye closed under a bluish cut.

Mitchell drew cheers from the crowd of 2,100 by following aging Archie around the ring only to be sent back time and again on his heels.

The final came when Moore slugged it out with the loser near the ropes. Mitchell rolled down to one knee then slumped over on his side. He got to his feet at the eight count but the fight was already stopped.

1,200 Attend Sidney Teenagers' Halloween Frolic

SIDNEY—The most brilliant fireworks display and Halloween festival ever seen here was staged at the new community hall in Memorial Park Thursday night by the Teenage Club of Sidney.

A crowd of 1,200 met at the hall, which is still unfinished, for a costume parade, contests, and serving of candy, hot dogs and soft drinks to the youngsters.

Members of Sidney Volunteer Fire Department set off the fireworks.

TAG DAY FUNDS

The Halloween party was financed through a tag day held here last Saturday by the Teenage Club with the co-operation of members' parents.

It marked the first function held in the hall, built and financed through efforts of Sidney and North Saanich Community Hall Association.

$10,000 NEEDED

Just this week the ways and means committee of the association was authorized to raise $10,000 for completion of the hall, and it is hoped to have it ready for full use by the end of the year.

A fund drive has reached $3,158 in cash and pledges. Although no more canvassing will be done, contributions to the hall fund will be accepted at Cornish's on Beacon Avenue.

'Red Tide' Parley Here Next Week

Results of laboratory tests conducted on samples from B.C. clam and oyster beds, as a result of the influx of "red tide" in waters near Courtenay, will be discussed in Victoria next week by the Pacific Coast Shellfish Committee.

The "red tide" or gonolax catenella, a salt water plankton that does not injure clams and oysters but makes them unfit for human consumption, broke out a week ago near Courtenay, and to date 30 persons on the Island and lower mainland have suffered a mild paralysis from eating affected shellfish.

RESULTS AWAITED

Samples have been flown to the federal food and drug division laboratory in Vancouver to determine toxicity and the shellfish industry, shut down since the beginning of the week, hopes for a recommendation that will permit at least partial resumption of work.

There have been no new cases of poisoning since placing of the ban on shellfish beds and warnings to the public.

HOW TO GET ALONG

Canada Sets Good Example, Says Hawrelak

PORT ALBERNI (CP)—Other nations could well emulate Canada in the readiness of her people to get along one with another. Mayor William Hawrelak of Edmonton told the Canadian Club here.

Speaking on "Our heritage in Canadian citizenship," he traced the nation's political, economic and cultural history, from the first attempt to confederate Upper and Lower Canada with people of different languages and backgrounds.

RESPECT

With the increased number of ethnic groups in the country today, Canadians are achieving a culture based on respect for one another as individuals, the mayor said.

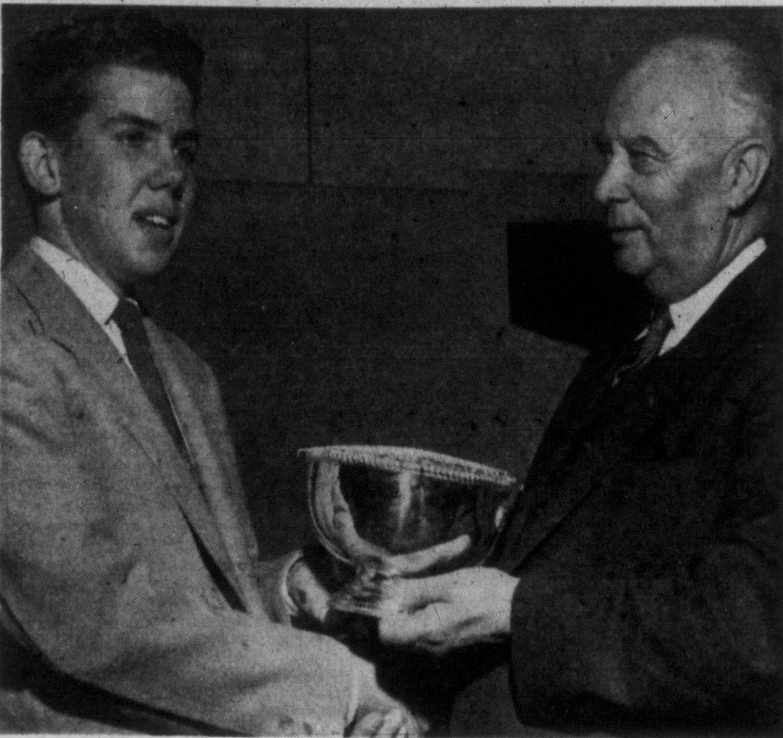

Mayor Hawrelak said that out of the union of the two different peoples of Upper and Lower Canada, the nation has evolved a pattern of government which has preserved important rights of her citizens.

Free Lessons In Square Dance For New 'C-Saws'

CHEMAINUS—A course of eight lessons will be given free by professional instructors to new members of the "C-Saws" square dance club, which opens its winter season this week.

The club, one of the oldest square dance clubs on the Island, was started in the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Beaulieu in 1948 as a private group of two sets.

After a few months of meeting in private homes members began to meet on alternate weeks in the small community hall, then moved to the parish hall. In 1951 they were officially organized as the "C-Saws."

DELEGATION TO GAGLARDI

End-Loading Wharf Asked for Ganges

GANGES—Salt Spring Island Chamber of Commerce will ask Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi for establishment of an end-loading wharf here and paving of the Fulford-Beaver Point Road.

A committee appointed at a chamber meeting this week to interview Mr. Gagliardi will include A. M. Brown, Col. D. G. Crofton, J. C. Smith, N. Netterfield, J. B. Acland, and M. Atkins.

Endorsed at the meeting was a suggestion by M. C. Lambert that the highways department be asked to pave all roads used by school buses, and requests for a 7 a.m. ferry between Vesuvius Bay and Crofton, and a late Swartz Bay-Fulford ferry Friday evenings.

CLAIM REJECTED

VANCOUVER—Chief Justice Sherwood Lett of the B.C. Supreme Court Thursday dismissed a $45,000 claim against the city arising from expropriation of land for the new civic auditorium.

Hemrick Brothers, operators of a service station at Dunsmuir and Hamilton, had claimed this amount as compensation of inability to do business or sell the station as a going concern.

Hemmings to Run Again at Sidney

SIDNEY—Dr. C. H. Hemmings, chairman of the Sidney Village commission during 1957, has announced that he will resign as commissioner in order to stand for re-election as chairman.

Under the old Municipal Act commissioners themselves chose their chairman after election. Under terms of the new act the chairman must be elected by the ratepayers.

With terms of commissioners Mrs. Vivian Cowan and Joseph Bilgeri expiring this year, Dr. Hemmings' resignation will bring total vacancies on the commission to three.

TO QUIT

Mrs. Cowan already has announced she will not seek re-election, and although Mr. Bilgeri is expected to stand he has made no official announcement. Terms of commissioners A. A. Cormack and T. A. Aiers have a year to run.

In neighboring Central Saanich municipality, two retiring councillors, Coun. R. M. Lamont and Coun. P. F. Warren, have announced they will seek re-election.

Beck Defies AFL-CIO; Hoffa Stays

WASHINGTON (UP)—Teamster President Dave Beck defied AFL-CIO executive council demands Thursday and said the giant union has no intention of purging James R. Hoffa from its ranks.

Beck, who is slated to be succeeded by Hoffa as union president, said the Teamsters would appeal their suspension by the executive council to the AFL-CIO convention in Atlantic City, N.J., in December.

AFL-CIO President George Meany said in announcing suspension of the Teamsters a week ago that Hoffa would have to be dropped or the executive council would recommend the union's ouster at the December meeting.

Beck said that if the Teamsters' appeal to the AFL-CIO convention was turned down he was sure the Teamsters would be expelled.

He said the union's executive would contend that there was no factual evidence to back allegations of corruption against Beck, Hoffa and other union officials elected at the Teamsters' recent Miami Beach convention.

He also said the union would argue that even if the alleged acts were true—which he denied—they all took place before the AFL-CIO constitution was adopted two years ago.

8% Wage Offer 'Final' Says Explosives Chief

Bert Carpenter, manager of the Canadian Explosives Ltd. plant on James Island, said Thursday afternoon the company's latest contract proposal to be considered Saturday by 150 workers is the final offer.

Federal 128, Canadian Chemical and Explosives Workers' Union, is expected to reject the offer and set a strike deadline.

NO HIGHER—Mr. Carpenter said the company's offer, made Wednesday at a meeting with union officials, involved a wage increase of 8 per cent "which meets the union's latest demand for 7½ to 8½ per cent."

He said the company "will not go any higher than that." The company's offer involves wage increases of 13 to 17 cents an hour, which would result in first-class tradesmen's rates going up to $2.28 and a base labor rate of $1.76, he said.

A lump sum offer of $40 for each employee in lieu of retroactive pay to Sept. 1, is included. This represents 75 per cent of the union demand.

An offer of double time and a half for work during seven of the nine statutory holidays would give powerhouse employees more than $45 for holiday work.

A 10-minute daily rest period for each employee and a five-cent-an-hour upward wage adjustment for a special classification among locomotive drivers, also were provisions in the offer.

"The union was assured that consideration would be given to their proposal for an 18-month agreement, instead of the present 12 months, and for a further wage increase of 2 per cent after 12 months as they requested," he said.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE

'That's the Way I Kill All My Cats'

A 78-year-old Saanich resident who tried to kill a cat by hanging it by the neck and beating it on the head with a mallet was given a suspended sentence in Saanich police court Thursday.

Joseph Dufresne, 3771 Savannah, was found guilty of causing an animal to suffer.

"I have considered the circumstances," said Magistrate H. C. Hall, "and I feel it was improper action on your part and you did not have good reason to kill this cat in the first place.

"I find you guilty, but in view of your age and previous good character I will suspend sentence."

Dufresne told the court last week: "That the way I kill all my cats."

Later he said: "I love cats as well as anybody. They (the cats in a litter) were all black cats like this one and nobody wanted them on account of they were black."

Zoel Frain, 3770 Winston, directly behind Dufresne's home, called police after she looked out a window and saw the killing take place Oct. 5 at about 1:30 p.m.

SLEDGE HAMMER

"He was hitting this cat. He tied a rope around the cat's neck and tied it to a tree. Then he hit it with what looked like a sledge hammer. He hit it about 20 times."

"I went outside and called to him. I told him to stop. He looked, but he ignored me and went on hitting the cat."

Saanich Cons. Donald Keith Toney and SPCA inspector Clifford Ladd arrived shortly after and were present as Dufresne dug up the cat.

Insp. Ladd said the cat was badly injured but still alive when he took it into his custody. He later put it away with anaesthetic.

Bowie Kicks Lovely Star In Bullring

LONDON (Reuters)—Hollywood star Ava Gardner is nursing painful bruises after being butted by a cow in a private bullring in Seville, a London newspaper says.

The London Daily Mail says Miss Gardner is in London incognito recovering from a cow's charge on the ranch of Spain's leading horseback bullfighter Angel Peralta.

The Mail says the cow up-ended the Hollywood beauty and kicked her in the back of the neck.

SYMPHONY BY SOVIET COMPOSER PREMIERED

LONDON (AP)—Dmitri Shostakovich's 11th symphony—the first he has written in four years—was given its first performance in Moscow Wednesday.

The new work, called 1905, was played by the Soviet State Symphony Orchestra. Moscow radio quoted conductor Natta Rakhlin as saying it is "the most outstanding of Shostakovich's works."

HERE AND THERE

Combined Ops Beat Balky Pen Machine

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

One way of making friends is to get yourself into some kind of difficulty.

I made that discovery in a downtown cafe while endeavoring to buy a ball-point pen from one of those 25-cent slot machines.

The machine digested my coin but wouldn't cough up a pen. Two customers promptly came to my assistance in punching, jiggling and shaking the offending machine until finally the monster surrendered and gave me what I had paid for.

Then I found the pen wouldn't write. Up came another customer and said:

"You have to burn the point with a match—there is a thin coating of wax over it."

All three then proffered matches and the job was done.

POINT STUCK

Next I had trouble retracting the point which had stuck in the writing position. Up came two more helpers and discussed learnedly on the mechanism of ball-point pens.

One of them took the whole apparatus to pieces, adjusted the spring and handed me back the pen.

And so, having done their good deed for the day, the men returned to their afternoon coffee.

Had no idea there were so many Manx people in Victoria until I wrote an item in The Times about a resident of Port St. Mary, Isle of Man, who wanted to emigrate to B.C. and asked which city I would recommend—Victoria or New Westminster?

The response was a flock of phone calls from Manxmen (and Manx-women) who wanted to write to the would-be emigrant offering him a special welcome to Victoria.

One of the welcoming committee is Frank Kitto, sales manager of a Victoria real estate firm, who came here from Port St. Mary 30 years ago.

I heard recently of a Victoria man who committed a terrible deed in a church porch. While examining the notice board inside he inadvertently dropped a small bottle of whisky from his greatcoat pocket.

It smashed on the stone floor and the odorous liquid flowed in all directions. At that awful moment two women church workers entered and the visitor apologized profusely both for having liquor in his possession and for dropping it in a church.

"Oh, that's all right," said one of the ladies soothingly. "We do not condemn the use of liquor—only the abuse of it."

Film Magnate Mayer Given Lavish Rites

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Louis B. Mayer, a king of Hollywood, was buried Thursday in one of the most lavish funerals in movieland history.

A huge bank of flowers, many of them big wreaths of orchids, stretched 100 feet across the altar of Wilshire Boulevard Temple. So bulky were the floral offerings that a large moving van was used to transport them to the private interment rites at Home of Peace cemetery.

Mayer, who grew up in Saint John, N.B., and was founder of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio, died Tuesday of leukemia. He was 72.

The eulogy was delivered by actor Spencer Tracy, who called Mayer "a giant among men but one who had the rare gift of knowing and understanding people."

Even Commissioner Frick said the situation has been discussed informally but insisted no definite action had been taken.

"But the possibility of moving to a two-club city, if there is one left at that time, is something we may have to face sometime."

At the present time, the only two-club city in the majors is Chicago.

NEW YORK (AP)—Baseball commissioner Ford Frick and his office staff may eventually follow the westward trend and move out of New York—probably to Chicago.

Queen's Racehorse Named White House

LONDON (AP)—The Queen, who recently visited President Eisenhower in Washington, has named one of her race horses after his official residence.

She registered the name White House with the Jockey Club Thursday for a yearling gelding.

Arrests Ordered At Little Rock

City Council Tells Police to Apprehend
All Officers of Colored Association

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Police today had orders to arrest all officers of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People they could find in integration-wracked Little Rock.

The city council Thursday night voted unanimously for the arrests.

Acting mayor Lee H. Evans and seven aldermen agreed on the action after the NAACP failed to obey a new ordinance which requires certain groups to bare their confidential files. Deadline for submitting the information was Thursday.

Only two local NAACP officials were known to authorities and one of them, Mrs. L. C. Bates, was in New York. She is state president of the organization.

The victims were Louis Allan Molnar and his wife Rita Ann, daughter of Charles Labine, Toronto mining executive.

The Molnars said the men told them their documents were out of order and they faced deportation, but the matter could be fixed for $10,000.

Mayor Woodrow Wilson Mann notified the NAACP and three Little Rock segregationist groups Oct. 15 that they would have to make their records public under the new ordinance.

The NAACP this week filed a petition in U.S. district court here requesting a restraining order to block enforcement of the ordinance and a hearing was set for Nov. 4.

All three of the segregation groups—the League of Central High Mothers, the freedom fund for Little Rock and the Capital Citizens' Council—submitted their records to the city Thursday.

Mann said after telling the four organizations to file their reports that he considered all were contributing to racial tension at Little Rock.

The federal-state deadlock over integration of nine Negro students at Central High School shows no sign of loosening.

Federal soldiers still remain inside and outside Central High.

An NAACP spokesman said Mrs. Bates planned to leave New York for Little Rock after a Sunday speaking engagement.

"She is not the kind to run away from a fight," the spokesman said.

4 MEXICANS JAILED IN MOLNAR CASE

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Four men, including two former secret service agents, were convicted Thursday on charges of robbing a Canadian couple from whom they tried to extort $10,000, and sentenced to five years in prison.

The victims were Louis Allan Molnar and his wife Rita Ann, daughter of Charles Labine, Toronto mining executive.

The Molnars said the men told them their documents were out of order and they faced deportation, but the matter could be fixed for $10,000.

Merchants Remanded As Witness Ailing

Eight charges of failing to close grocery premises on Sunday were adjourned in Saanich police court Thursday to Nov. 14 due to illness of a crown witness.

Seven storekeepers were charged under provision of the Municipal Act regarding Sunday hours. Two charges are against Henry Eng, proprietor of Outdoor Garden Market, 3475 Quadra, who has pleaded not guilty.

Course to be taken by the others likely will depend on the outcome of the first two charges.

Trans-Arctic Plane Limps Over Atlantic

Kiernan to Free Island Iron Ore

Move to Expand Industry; New Tax Details Explained

Expansion of the Vancouver Island iron ore mining industry was foreseen today following a government decision to lift its reserve on the area.

Mines Minister Kiernan announced the reserve will be lifted in about two weeks in the Nanaimo, Victoria and Alberni mining divisions, which includes islands in the Gulf of Georgia.

The minister also released details of how the government's new tax on iron ore will be applied.

SPUR HUNT

He said rebate provisions in the tax regulations for exploratory work should encourage operators to hunt for new ore bodies.

Two main iron ore producers in this area at present are Empire Development Ltd. at Quatsino and Texada Mines Ltd. on Texada Island.

Mr. Kiernan said the government has indications that other firms are interested in iron ore prospects on Vancouver Island.

ONLY PLACE

At present the Island is the only area of the province which has shown a capacity for iron ore production.

However, the possibility that an iron ore smelter may be established on the Island still is uncertain.

The minister admitted he could not foresee establishment of a smelter anywhere in the province in the immediate future.

Main factor determining a site for the smelter is that it be on tidewater.

IN 1951

The reserve was placed on all prospective iron ore properties in the province in 1951. It prevented anyone from acquiring any interest in new iron ore discoveries.

It was designed to protect remaining ore in the province from export.

Under the new leasing provisions ore cannot be exported without the consent of the government.

All iron ore mined will be subject to a royalty of 25 cents to 50 cents per ton of ore of 50 per cent content.

DIRECT REVENUE

Mr. Kiernan said the new tax, besides being designed to discourage export, will for the first time "assure some direct revenue to the people of the province from the mining of the iron ore reserve."

If the operator has done an approved amount of exploratory work, he may apply for a 50 per cent return of his tax of 50 cents a ton.

"We believe that this provision for the rebate will encourage mining operators to search diligently for new ore bodies and thus improve our known iron ore supply," Mr. Kiernan said.

The minister added that the bonus system set up for production of pig iron within the province is a further inducement for establishment of smelting facilities in the province, and will more than offset the new tax.

The tax will become effective this year and may apply to all production during 1957.

Chatterton Hat In Saanich Ring

At least one Saanich councillor will run again in next month's election when 20,675 voters are eligible to go to the polls.

Coun. George Chatterton said today he "definitely" will stand for re-election Dec. 12 when the reeveship and three council seats will be decided.

A member of District 63 (Saanich) school board for eight years, including two as chairman, he was elected by acclamation in a by-election this summer for his first seat on municipal council.

"I had thought of running for reeve this year, but I decided against it. However, I definitely will stand for council," he said.

SPACE TOYS IN ANOTHER ORBIT?

Dolls Reign Supreme At Toyland Opening

By TONY DICKASON

Today it was proven, beyond the shadow of a satellite, that the doll is still the thing.

In the Hudson's Bay toy department, first to open among Victoria's major department stores for the Christmas trade, dolls take pre-eminence over the thousands of other offerings.

Space gadgets are as rare as Sputnik's beep.

HUMAN HAIR

This nifty looker costs $79.95. She was composed in Italy and has real human hair.

There are hundreds of varieties of dolls, from anaemic appearing semi-naked things, to the absolute in stupor.

Doll trend this year is moving away from the "pretty baby" phase common for many years. There are, today, sophisticated dolls, with permanents, high heels and a bony construction reminiscent of the smarter models in women's magazines.

Due to revival of the Shirley Temple pictures, dolls of that name are making a renewed appearance.

Along Girls' Street, Tots' Street and Toddlers' Street, by-passing Education Avenue, comes Boys' Street.

Here is enough mayhem available to counteract the homey quiet influence of the dolls.

There are burp guns, machine guns, pom-pom guns, big-game rifles, buffalo rifles, tommy guns, six-shooters, 38's, detective guns—but only one solitary offering of a space gun with a "disintegrator" ray. And there are thousands of leaded toy soldiers, tanks and planes.

But, on the other hand, there is the constructive as opposed to the destructive element. Nothing sells better, beating out even war impedimenta, than kits that make things—planes, ships, houses.

Wooden tinkertoys, popular for many a year, are still big sellers, but plastics have made considerable inroads.

Into the classical section—here's a harp from Italy that the young miss, presumably in shimmering gossamer gown, can pluck. Here's an accordion for $22.50, and "rock 'n' roll" drums that provide the insanity wedge as far as father is concerned.

But toy buyers here have found small demand for "out of this world" items like flying saucers, or space rockets.

So it seems, this Christmas at least, the boys will be content to fight, much as usual, and the girls to dress their pretty dolls.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—What is the deadliest of all poisons?—K.E.

A.—Generally believed to be the deadliest is the toxin of spore forming "clostridium botulinum," which may develop from canned goods being heated to a temperature not high enough to destroy the spores. It has been computed that three ten-millionths of an ounce of botulinum toxin is fatal to an adult of average weight.

Q.—What is blank verse?—U.Y.

Verse that is unrhymed. Here is Shakespeare: "Once more unto the breach, dear friends, once more." Or close the wall up with our English dead.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

HALLOWEEN WAS A PUSHOVER ... FOR POLICE

THERE AREN'T AS MANY things to topple on Halloween today as in years gone by. But P. W. Topham, W. G.

MONTÉ ROBERTS

This "do-it-yourself" jazz has gone far enough.

It is high time to stop it dead in its tracks, turn it around, and send it back where it came from. If it came from anywhere, which I doubt.

I have been able to stand by with reasonable restraint while various do-it-yourself projects have formed themselves within eyesight: projects such as do-it-yourself barbecues, do-it-yourself dining alcoves, do-it-yourself breezeways, do-it-yourself compost heaps.

I can even admire the lawyer who invests in a power-saw with which to produce do-it-yourself dining room furniture; the doctor with the complete set of water color paints, with which he paints do-it-yourself pictures for the walls of his homes; and the newspaper reporter who borrows a set of wrenches and sets up the spark plugs on his automobile, do-it-yourself style.

But I must reiterate, this do-it-yourself jazz has gone far enough.

In the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post, there is an author who actually authored his own work, and I claim this is carrying do-it-yourself much, much, too far.

The author to whom I refer is Art Linkletter, and the reason I know this author authored when he wrote is this statement by the Saturday Evening Post:

"HE WROTE IT HIMSELF"

"The sole author is Mr. Linkletter himself, who, unlike many celebrities, had no help from a collaborator in telling his story."

This is a dangerous trend—a departure to be eschewed by all well meaning authors.

And the fact it emerges in the environs of the Saturday Evening Post—that home of Pete Martin—is doubly dangerous.

If the Saturday Evening Post is going to let its authors author their own authoring, the penultimate in do-it-yourself will have been arrived at.

The ultimate, of course, will be the housewife who bakes a cake without a do-it-yourself cake mix.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

The fifth "picture loan" arrangement at the Art Gallery, Moss Street, will be held Monday at 8 p.m.

Gallery members may rent specified pictures for $2 a month, while guests and non-members are invited to view the display.

The loans are arranged by the women's committee.

Eight-room addition to Margaret Jenkins School will be formally opened tonight by W. H. Golby, chairman of the Greater Victoria School Board. The opening will tie in with the Margaret Jenkins-Bank Street PTA's annual fall fair, which begins at 7.

Charged Oct. 19 as a minor in possession of liquor, Barry Keith Durie, 19, HMCS Fraser, entered a guilty plea in city police court today and was fined $15 or, in default, three days.

Second payment of $5,000 to the city for 5½ acres on Harriet Road was made today by the Gorge View Society, Victoria presbytery of the United Church of Canada. The final $5,000 is "in sight," society official Paul Nafel said.

Construction of 62 duplexes and 16 single units for elderly persons will cost $400,000, he said, to be raised through church donations and individual contributions. The housing project will be open to all denominations.

Charge of breaking and entering Universal Sheet Metal Ltd., laid against David H. Ward was dismissed in city police court today.

Evidence concerning the break-in Oct. 11 was "not sufficiently strong" to show intent to steal, Magistrate H. C. Hall said.

The magistrate committed Allan Lane and Ronald Beckley, both facing the same charge, to trial before a county court judge.

First contract negotiations covering 11 office employees of Empress Motors Ltd. here will begin soon. At Playfair, representative of Office Employees International Union, said today. Local 15 of the union recently was certified as bargaining agent for the employees.

At least 100 men are wanted to buzz out to a work bee at Elk Lake's Happyland Sunday at 8 a.m. They are asked to bring brush-clearing tools. The park area has been granted $52,000 in centennial funds. In charge of the primary development is Ald. M. H. Mooney. "It's up to the residents to show they want more than that," he said. "With some pioneer spirit, we can have a $100,000 development, and that's what we want."

Twenty-eight Boy Scouts and 18 Cubs of St. Louis College will be either inducted or receive achievement awards Saturday after which a concert will follow in the auditorium of St. Ann's Academy.

Five selections will be rendered by the 100-voice glee club, and a play "First Aid" will be presented.

The gathering is open to relatives and the interested public.

A report by Greater Victoria Centennial Committee secretary Capt. D. J. Proudfoot, that 1,000,000 units of fireworks would be ordered from Canton for local celebration, was discounted by other officials today. "Nothing at all has been decided," said secretary of Chinese Benevolent Association, Peter Wong.

"I don't think I would agree with buying any fireworks from Red China," said G. K. Sammon, vice-president of the centennial committee.

Eligible voters in the Saanich civic election next month number 20,675, an increase of 836. The figure was confirmed today when nobody showed up at a court of revision.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: James R. Proudfoot, 2811 Adelaide, $40 and licence suspended for careless driving; Eric D. Scoates, 2137 Central, $35, careless driving; Lloyd Gerald Rolheiser, HMCS Fraser, $25 for no B.C. driver's licence, and $25 for no B.C. licence plates; William Harry Smith, HMCS Naden, $10, no rear licence plate illumination.

SOAPED WINDOWS are common Halloween prank and easily fixed, as Gladys Hitchen demonstrates at Carey Road drug store.

221 More Jobless This Week

Unemployment figures in Greater Victoria area leaped by 221 during the past week to hit a total of 2,907.

Greater by 700 than the corresponding figure last year, the total probably will be increased over the weekend when 90 plywood workers at B.C. Forest Products are laid off.

The weekly National Employment Service report released today blamed the increase on province-wide conditions along with cutbacks in local shipping and construction industries.

FROM UP-ISLAND

"The local picture is still being aggravated by workers returning to the city following up-island and mainland layoffs," officials said.

Breakdown of the total shows 1,929 men and 978 women are registered at the office here.

However, there are some strong spots in the employment picture.

There is urgent demand for sheet metal workers, furnace installers and auto body men. Specialized salesmen, electrical draftsmen and engineers are needed too.

In the women's division, an acute shortage exists for all types of domestic workers. There also are vacancies for waitresses, cooks, typists and stenographers.

OCTOBER'S TEMPERATURE TRUE TO FORM

October's mean temperature of 51.2 degrees matched exactly the October average set during 59 years of weather recording here, weatherman William Mackie said today.

Maximum temperature was 66.4 degrees Oct. 10, and the minimum was 35.6 degrees Oct. 23. Minimum at ground level was 27 degrees Oct. 4.

Rainfall was only 1.84 inches, or .99 inch less than normal, and rain fell on 12 days instead of the usual 14.

Total precipitation since Jan. 1 is 16.29 inches, or 1.9 inches less than normal.

New Beach Studied For Beaver Lake

Construction of a new beach at Beaver Lake, north of the present beach and pavilion, is under study by centennial park planners.

Ald. M. H. Mooney, chairman of a Victoria-Saanich Beaches and Parks sub-committee, said today.

"This could be one of the finest beaches in the area."

"The lake margins already boast park-like surroundings," he stated, "and there is a gradual slope to the water and plenty of parking space."

PUBLISHER'S NOTEBOOK

Tough Week for Socreds

ALL over town, people are asking:

"Why haven't the Socreds publicly rebuked that Peace River bird for his attack on the Jews?"

"Why didn't somebody get up on the floor of their convention and tell him off?"

"Why hasn't the Premier made a statement?"

(The Premier has made a statement. He said a statement wasn't necessary.)

The reason this unfortunate fellow (Young) hasn't been disciplined is apparent to anyone who has read the pure Social Credit teachings of the late Major Douglas. Anti-Semitism runs like a thread through the preposterous financial theories of the Major.

He sent it out to Canada at Bible Bill Aberhart's request and it wasn't long after the famous "Bankers' Toadies" pamphlets in the Alberta legislature—that these imported geni—were languishing in our jail.

This race-hatred found violent expression in the Commons speeches of the late Norman Jacques. At various times, although it is now deemed wise to smother it, for political reasons, it has been given expression by Blackmore, Hansell, Quelch, and others.

A few years ago the Hon. Eric Martin gave a speech to Victoria Rotary in which he referred to a mysterious "International" who were out to "rob Canadians of their sovereignty." It was so sickening several members got up and walked out.

What causes race hatred, anyway? Most responsible authorities today attribute it to fear.

Social Crediters, historically, have been fearful; the poor, bumbling misfits of life who

QUIET HALLOWEEN

Police Action Averts Rowdyism

Firm action by Greater Victoria police forces put a damper on Halloween rowdyism Thursday night.

Police courts will be busy handling a variety of charges in the near future as a result of the celebrations—but this year, most of the alleged law-breakers are adults.

At least 14 merchants have been charged with after hours fireworks sales—10 in Victoria and four in Saanich. Ten of the charges preceded the celebrations.

Victoria police also will issue summonses to youths who defied the order to keep fireworks out of the downtown area. Number of summonses, while not certain, will be less than 10. One boy is charged with obstruction.

Most serious charges have been laid by Colwood RCMP. Five juveniles, three boys and two girls, who "jumped the gun" on Halloween, have been charged with wilful damage.

They were apprehended during a wrecking spree in the Fish and Game Association Clubhouse at Goldstream during the noon hour Thursday. RCMP set a damage estimate at $200. Entry was forced and a glass showcase of mounted birds was destroyed. A number of cups and trophies were damaged after club pigeons, used in skeet shooting, were hurled at them.

It is understood the five are high school students who travelled to the clubhouse in a car during the noon hour.

In Oak Bay and Saanich, police reported "the quietest Halloween ever." Esquimalt Chief Gilbert Stancombe denied earlier reports that some charges would be laid in that municipality.

The district was free from Halloween accidents. Only one youngster was treated at hospital for fireworks burns, and he was released.

Biggest change from recent years occurred in the Victoria downtown area. Police stepped on fireworks mischief early in the evening, confiscating bombs in many cases.

Yates Street was closed to traffic between Douglas and Blanshard. Gangs of youths who came down to see whether earlier warnings meant business, were kept on the move.

Restaurant 'Hangouts' Close Early

Three restaurants near Odeon Theatre, where many youngsters congregate most nights, closed their doors before 7 p.m.

At least one other city restaurant used the Halloween motif to draw guests. The Net Loft put all staff members in costume and decorated the premises with headless bodies and skeletons, wearing signs such as "He ate here."

Harmless enjoyment was the keynote of bonfire parties staged in other parts of the district.

Saanich firemen and Saanich police sponsored a bonfire at Shelbourne Street firehall. Wives of the group prepared hotdogs and other treats for 500.

Biggest bonfire was at Oak Bay where Kiwanis and firemen sponsored the event. Entertainment was provided by the Homesteaders and Reg Stoffer at the organ. About 800 attended, many adults escorting the children.

Esquimalt Lions did a similar job at Bullen Park and were credited by police with aiding greatly in keeping Halloween safe and sensible.

Many other organizations, including Victoria West Community Association and many private groups, held bonfires and "feeds" for kiddies from Langford to Sidney, Sooke to Victoria.

While not harassed to the same degree as other years police were kept busy with constant complaints of hooliganism.

Windows were broken, bombs were dropped through letter slots, street lights popped, fences disappeared.

A fire set at the front door of 487 St. Charles was extinguished before damage resulted. Boulevard trees were damaged and many passing cars were attacked with firecracker fusillades.

Many motorists were given a scare by a dummy hung by a rope beneath the Thefts underpass.

Some hydrants were opened in Langford and some false alarms were turned in from various parts of the district.

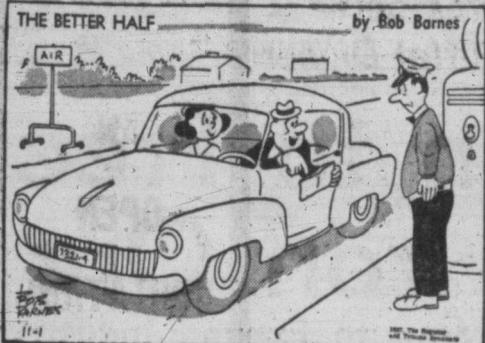

In past years, these things have appeared insignificant in comparison to the dangerous bomb was carried out in the central part of the city.

Senior VON Staff Members To Discuss Rehabilitation

OTTAWA (CP)—A group of senior Victorian Order of Nurses staff members will meet here Nov. 7-9 to discuss rehabilitation of patients suffering chronic diseases.

Christine Livingstone, VON director in chief, today said the conference will attempt to give nurses a broader look at various aspects of rehabilitation.

About 35 VON nurses are to attend the three-day session at VON headquarters. Specialists in various aspects of rehabilitation work will address the group.

Many chronic illnesses may be prevented and many people who might have faced a lifetime of dependency may be helped to return to useful and normal activities, said Miss Livingstone.

But rehabilitation called for the combined activities of many persons. Nurses should know as much as possible about other fields of rehabilitation and be able to fit home nursing service into a total program.

Speakers at the conference are Dr. Allister MacLeod,

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Vitamins Lost When We Pour Water Off Vegetables

Q. "How are vitamins lost in cooking?"
A. The greatest loss is in the water which some cooks pour off the vegetables. There is also some loss through evaporation, especially in the case of cabbage. We should cook with as little water as possible and then cook dry—or, pour no water off. We also lose vitamins when we peel fruit.

Q. "I have your abdominal exercises, but do you know a good exercise to get rid of a spare tire around the middle? I will be watching your column for one."

A. The waist is the easiest spot of all to reduce. This measurement responds to exercise rapidly. Try the two following exercises.

1. Stand tall, feet comfortably separated. Raise the arms sideward, shoulder height. Bend to the left, touching the fingers of the left hand to the floor. Raise the trunk and pull back as your trunk passes across the centre of the body and continues to bend right. Try to touch the fingertips of the right hand to the floor. Raise the trunk and pull back as your trunk crosses the centre of the body and you continue on to bend left again. This is a smooth, rolling motion, as you bend from side to side and pull back as the trunk crosses the centre line of the body.

2. Again stand tall. This time bend both elbows and place your hands flat on the top of your head, one hand on top of the other. Keep your arms in this position as you bend forward as far as you can. Raise the trunk. Continue. Be SURE to keep the back flat as you bend, and the knees straight.

After a while, with the arms still in this position, bend to the left, raise the trunk and then bend to the right and continue. Take time for the pull when doing these exercises.

Q. "How can I make my hair grow faster? I cut it too short and it takes so long for it to grow out."

A. Sorry. You will just have to let nature take its course.

Q. "I have a birthmark on the side of my neck which has caused me much unhappiness. I have tried to no avail to cover it up with cosmetics. If you could tell me of some preparation that will cover it, I would be forever grateful. You cannot know how much it would mean to me."

A. Send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request, and I will send you the information you wish. I do not give trade names in this column.

Rent a Painting for a Month; You May Want It for Life

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Six months ago the women's committee of the Greater Victoria Art Gallery quietly launched a new project. New in Victoria, that is, but it already had seen success in other cities across the continent.

Rent a painting, the project was called.

The plan was to gather a representative collection of paintings by Canadian artists, hang them for one night a month in the Art Gallery, have Victorians choose the ones they liked best and then rent them for a nominal fee.

The project, Elizabeth had a modest beginning. "Healthy but not spectacular," is the way members of the committee describe the first rental night back last spring.

Today there is an average of 75 paintings going into Victoria homes each month.

Next showing will be Monday night at the Art Gallery.

A half hour is given for viewing the paintings and making a selection—or selections.

The room where the pictures are hung, is then cleared. At a time signal, a bell rings. The renters crowd back into the room and rush (and I mean rush) for their first choices. It's a case of first come, first served.

"Sometimes as many as three people will want the same painting," Colin Graham, art gallery curator says. "That's why it's wise in the first place to make several alternative choices."

"Even then there is bound to be some disappointed art lovers."

All ages are represented in the group that now comes to the rental showings but the most interested renters are in the age group from 25 to 45.

Curator Graham says: "They have built their attractive homes and are raising good-looking children but they haven't been able to furnish the rooms in their homes quite as completely as they would like. That's where this rent a painting idea pays off."

It costs $2 a month for a painting. If by chance the picture is finally purchased, the rental is deducted from the selling price.

replacing the pictures in the current showing.

Nevertheless Colin Graham contends this project is as important as anything the gallery does. To make his point he cites the Vancouver Gallery's loan group now going into its fifth year. "That group has put more than $15,000 in the pockets of Canadian artists," he says.

"The whole idea now widespread across Canada is giving impetus to the collecting of Canadian paintings."

On Monday when the bell rings, it might be interesting to be in the crowd that will rush into the rental room at the gallery.

You might... you just might... find a picture you'd like to hang in your own home for say... $2 a month.

Honor Guard for Couple Wed at Garrison Chapel

A military guard honored Mr. and Mrs. Roland Maurice Desmarais when they left the Garrison chapel at 10 p.m. following their recent wedding.

The bride, formerly Joan Ethel Greenwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Greenwood, Penticton, B.C., wore a ballerina-length gown of white lace and net embroidered with sequins for the ceremony. Her illusion net veil was held by a sequined headpiece and she wore a set of rhinestone jewelry, gift of the groom.

The bride's cousin, Miss Sheila Greenwood was maid of honor wearing a gown of primrose yellow taffeta and nylon net and carrying a bouquet of carnations en tone.

Miss Shirley Greenwood, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid wearing a similar gown in turquoise and carrying pale yellow carnations in her bouquet.

Gene Pierine was best man for the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Desmarais of Edam, Sask.

Honor guard included Dick Mounce, Ed Lanoue, Ray Coleman, Ron Young, Art Ambridge and Delmar Buck.

Wedding ceremony was conducted by Rev. E. M. MacQuarrie and wedding music was played by Mrs. MacQuarrie. The chapel was decorated with yellow and white chrysanthemums.

The Rhythm Ramblers' orchestra played music for dancing at a reception in Dulcie's Banquet Hall. Toast to the bride was proposed by her uncle, George Greenwood. For travelling up-Island on honeymoon, the bride chose a brown wool sheath dress with matching accessories and yellow orchids, en corsage.

The newlyweds will make their home at Winnipeg, Man.

NEW STAMP TO HONOR INSTITUTES

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's Women's Institutes are to be honored in 1959 by a commemorative five-cent postage stamp.

The stamp's design has not been decided. But it will honor the late Mrs. Adelaide Hoodless of Hamilton, Ont., who was instrumental in founding the first WI at Stoney Creek, Ont., in 1897.

A report on the stamp was presented Thursday at final sessions of the FWIC's four-day—and first national convention.

Strange Creatures Serve At Halloween Buffet Dinner

Grotesque creatures from the sea served guests at the Net Loft, Thursday night.

Seaweed-green face of a pirate's corpse managed a horrible grin as he passed tomato juice cocktails. More frightening still was a strange form entangled with fish net and cork floats, crowned with a flowing mane of blue hair. It hovered menacingly over guests' shoulders to pour cups of coffee.

It must have been a potent witches' brew that transformed waiters and waitresses into such weird monsters, raised from the murky depths.

There was a viscous-looking fish with great, bulging eyes, a dead-eye sailor who obviously didn't "beware" and in stark contrast, a very pretty sailor-ette.

Even old King Neptune himself was there to reassure guests as they entered the door.

The dimly-lit restaurant was a horror chamber of scenes that might well have been lifted from an English waxworks. Blood-curdling decorations were interspersed with the traditional Halloween pumpkins with leering faces and buckets of bobbing apples. Life-like plastic spiders and small reptiles were occasionally found on the tables.

There was nothing grotesque about the buffet supper table, however. Using huge, hollowed pumpkins for casseroles, dishes and salads, the chefs put on a delicious spread for their guests, who, luckily, were not too frightened to eat.

Cummings Does Drama in 'Dual Control'—C-11 at 8.30

NEW BLOOD—Showtime has got off to a good start this season if only because of a revision in format and policy. Last year's show was good of its type but fell down rather because its star was too big. Consider the predicament of a production that is not the top medium in the entertainment field and has a star who deserves better. Quite naturally she will want things to revolve around her and other performers as well as the show suffer because of it.

Now Shirley Warner has moved on to bigger and better things on the Gobel-Fisher Show and the new Showtime looks more like being the "intimate, revue of comedy, song and dance" that producer Norm Jewison calls it.

Former male lead Bob Goulet stars this season with the able assistance of Gloria Lambert, diminutive congress of last year's "Barris Beat"; Jack Duffy (who looks alarmingly like Frank Sinatra), a singer-comedian-mimic; and the Bill Brady singers. Regular guests on the show will be Joyce Sullivan, a stand-out in the summer version of the show and the Five Van Evera Brothers. Alan and Blanche Lund will also be seen from time to time as well as guest appearances by little known Canadian performers.

TV TEE-HEES

PATRICE MUNSEL appears tonight on 5. Those deluded souls still under the impression that operatic sopranos are all overweight "squares" should not miss this one.

Nancy Sinatra appeared with her father last season as a solo and tonight she turns up as one of the tones in the Tri-Tones. Apparently this optimistic triad was cemented in school.

Speaking of names there are now two Kathy Crobys, Bob's daughter (who also sings) and Uncle Ben's bride look like sisters. By the looks of it NBC has had its head turned by the success of "Round the World in 80 Days." They are planning a GM 50th Anniversary show on Nov. 17 and after saying that Dinah Shore, Don Ameche, Pat Boone, Kirk Douglas, Helen Hayes, Patrice Munsel and Cyril Ritchard had been signed they announced to the world that "we're still looking for a star."

Full Text of Order On Sommers' Inquiry

Text of the order-in-council, passed by the provincial cabinet Thursday setting up the Sommers inquiry:

Whereas statements have been made alleging corruption in the obtaining of certain forest management licences and other privileges under the laws of the province applicable to forestry and whereas a civil action concerning the allegations was not proceeded with in the Supreme Court of British Columbia but was dismissed at the instance of the person making the said statements and whereas section three of the Public Inquiries Act provides that whenever the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council deems it expedient to cause inquiry to be made into and concerning any matter connected with the good government of the province or the conduct of any part of the public business thereof he is issued appointing the Hon. Gordon McGregor Sloan, Chief Justice of British Columbia to act as the sole commissioner to inquire into the following matters:

That is to say "Whether money or other properties has been improperly paid or transferred by British Columbia Forest Products Ltd., Tahsis Company Ltd., Empire Mills Ltd., Pacific Coast Services Ltd., Evergreen Lumber Sales Ltd., C.D. Schultz and Company Ltd., or by any of the promoters, directors or contractors of the said corporations or by any person in any way connected with, representing, or acting for or on behalf of the said corporations or any of the promoters, directors or contractors of the said corporations to Robert E. Sommers, M.L.A., as consideration for the performance of his duties in the granting, issuance or awarding of forest management licences or other privileges applicable to forestry, and if so the extent of such improper payments or transfers; the names of the persons or corporations by whom such payments or transfers were made and such other relevant facts in relation to this matter that in the opinion of the commissioner it is necessary to inquire into in order to carry out effectively the duties imposed upon him herein;"

And that the commissioner to report his findings to the Lieutenant-Governor in Council upon completion of the inquiry and that the commissioner may employ, counsel, secretarial staff, and such auditors, accountants and other professional consultants as are considered necessary for the purpose of conducting the inquiry at the usual rates for such services and the costs and expenses incurred in connection with this inquiry will be paid out of consolidated revenue.

WEST URGED TO AID INDIA

LONDON (AP)—Earl Attlee warned today that British and American actions would play a large part in deciding whether India goes Communist.

Writing in The Journal of the English-Speaking Union, he urged the provision of British and United States capital for Indian development.

He said: "The answer depends, of course, mainly on the Indians themselves, but in my view the issue will be largely influenced by the actions of the governments of Britain and the United States."

East Germany's Spy Hunter Out

BERLIN (AP)—East Germany's Communist regime announced today that Ernst Wollweber, its chief spy hunter, has been relieved for "health reasons."

Adn, the official East German news agency, said that Erich Mielke had replaced Wollweber as state security minister. Mielke had been deputy security minister.

Allied officials and West Berlin intelligence agencies were inclined to accept the health explanation.

Edmonton Buses Take Beating From Children

EDMONTON (CP) — Rowdy school children were accused Thursday of causing more than $1,250 damage to city-owned buses in the last six weeks.

"It's ridiculous the way some children are acting on the buses," James Moir, chief inspector for the Edmonton transit system said. "The worst offenders are high school students."

In the last six weeks, he said, some 50 windows have been smashed and about 40 seats have been slashed. Cost to repair a window is $5 and cost of recovering a slashed seat may run as high as $75.

It is nearly impossible to catch offenders, he contended. Damage generally occurs when buses are filled, and at the rear of the vehicles. Bus drivers are unable to make inspections of the vehicle before every stop on a busy run.

The stage has been reached, the inspector reported, where consideration may be given to discontinuing some service lines. Mr. Moir said no reports of injuries have been received during the "regular epidemic of children breaking windows."

"Youngsters are fighting on buses, ringing bells unnecessarily, and raising Cain in general."

Full Motel in Summer Season Reasonable Hope, Court Told

A retired Calgary business man told the Supreme Court in Victoria Thursday that before agreeing to purchase a 16-unit auto court opposite the Colwood Golf Course he was led to believe, every unit would be let during the tourist season.

"Have you ever known that to happen in other auto courts?" he was asked by counsel.

"Yes, I think it is a reasonable expectation during the tourist season."

"Even outside the city limits?"

"Yes."

Howard West, formerly of Calgary, is asking the court to rescind an agreement he entered into with Mr. and Mrs. George Bower of Victoria for the purchase of the Royal Auto Court.

$30,000 DOWN

Mr. West said he agreed to buy the auto court for $100,000 and made a $30,000 down payment. He claims that the Bowers misrepresented the amount of revenue they received from the business and the amount of expenses involved.

Mr. and Mrs. Bower have entered a counter-claim, seeking a court order for the specific performance of the agreement or the return of auto court.

Mr. West was cross-examined by Lloyd McKenzie, counsel for the Bowers.

Mr. McKenzie suggested it was unreasonable for an auto court owner to expect to have every unit occupied throughout the tourist season, particularly when the court was outside the city limits.

Mr. West claimed that he had to spend much more on maintenance expenses than he had been led to expect.

He admitted that for purposes of income tax relief he made a full statement of expenses, including dues paid to the Lions Club and the operation of a car.

Mr. McKenzie: "You charged up as much as you possibly could?"

Mr. West: "I charged up what I was allowed."

If the contents of a frying pan catch fire while cooking, turn off the heat immediately.

Cover the pan with its lid or with a wet dish towel. Water must not be used since it would spread the flame.

atmosphere with them," Dr. Petrie said.

Without oxygen, there is no life or water so that large quantities of food and water would have to be packed.

These conditions met, the rest devolve into a first-class horror story.

Because there is no air, temperatures are extreme. In the sunlight, it would be so hot that blood would boil—in fact a human would explode because of the lack of air pressure on his body. At night, or even in shadow, the temperatures are pretty close to absolute zero—about 300 degrees below Fahrenheit zero.

This means that the pioneers would have to lug around their own heating and cooling systems.

THEY MIGHT DODGE

"Of course, they could dodge in and out of the shadows of the many mountains of the moon," Dr. Petrie added whimsically. "If they were fast enough, they might survive."

But, even this would be impossible during the night. And the nights there, as well as the days, last two weeks.

Lack of atmosphere—the breathing and not the cabaret type—creates another problem. Meteorites "zing" into the moon at the rate of millions per 24-hour day without burning up as they do in the protective air blanket surrounding the earth.

These range in size from a grain of sand to a pea. The larger ones wouldn't merit "too much worry" because they are rare.

FASTER THAN BULLETS

But even these tiny pellets travel through space—and anyone standing on the moon's surface would have his head in outer space—at the speed of 30 miles a second. Bullets, by comparison, are measured only in feet a second.

"That would mean that you'd have to have a terrific amount of armor plating. Even a very thick layer of lead wouldn't stop a pea-sized meteorite, although it might absorb the grain of sand size," Dr. Petrie said.

Also, due to the absence of air, a human being would be exposed to fierce and fatal radiation bombardment from the sun—so, more lead covering.

"In fact, I think the first pioneers probably would have to stay put in their rocket ship and not venture out at all."

Another problem, not quite so tough, is the reduced gravity pull on the moon.

ONE WAY TO REDUCE

"A person would weigh only one-sixth his earth weight when he was on the moon. This would create some problems but it has the very important saving grace of making a man's strength much greater because he could do far more with less exertion," Dr. Petrie said.

"Another help because of this would be greater safety in falls. You could drop off a two-story building on the moon and it wouldn't feel any worse than jumping off a fence on earth."

Of course, the reverse would be true. The average man probably could jump about 24 feet in one high leap.

On the credit side of the moon's conditions, the chief factor is the immensely better observation possible of the sun, stars and planets with no atmosphere to distort the probing of telescopes and radio equipment.

And there's something for the tourist, too.

YOU'D SEE STARS

"You could see four times as many stars with the naked eye," Dr. Petrie explained. "You'd be able to see the sun's corona (halo effect) and the earth would be a beautiful sight."

"Our planet would appear 13 times larger than the full moon does to us and it would be far, far brighter."

But even for the tourists, there'd be a shock. The sky wouldn't have even a trace of the most waxy blue. It's utterly black.

"Ten years ago, I never would have thought that mankind would reach the moon in our lifetime," Dr. Petrie concluded. "But with the amazing progress of science now, I think there's a fair chance the younger generation will see it happen."

"As for living to the time when an un-manned rocket is shot to the moon, I'm sure we all will see that."

concerns mentioned, the ultimate destination of this money should be traced and discovered, he said.

Conservative Leader Deane Finlayson said in a prepared statement:

"There can be no doubt that growing public indignation over the government's handling of the Sommers affair forced the premier to burst the bag of secrecy containing the alleged suspicious actions of the former minister of lands and forests."

"The royal commission of enquiry that the premier has, at this late date, appointed should result in bringing this long drawn out and unfortunate affair to an honorable conclusion, and with this the Conservative party is in agreement."

NO NEED TO MEET

George Gregory, Victoria Liberal MLA who earlier this week urged the premier to call a special session of the legislature to deal with the charges, said today there now is no need for the House to meet.

"One of the chief things I wished to accomplish when I urged the premier to call a special session has already been done in the appointment of the royal commissioner," Mr. Gregory said.

"But I hope the report will be received before the legislature sits again."

Mr. Gregory said he would like to see the terms of ref-

REPLACE BONNER

Mr. Bonner should be replaced immediately, Mr. Gregory said.

The same evidence which motivated the government to set up the commission Thursday was presented to the attorney-general in December, 1955.

"At that time there was no civil action, but nothing was done," Mr. Gregory said.

"But Mr. Bonner did make the statutory declaration available to Mr. Sommers, who then used it as a basis for civil action."

Meanwhile, Mr. Sturdy commented that he has "at last accomplished what I started to do more than two years ago."

Mr. Sturdy said he hoped to be allowed to act as counsel for Mr. Eversfield at the inquiry.

ROCKET

become professor of physics in the meantime) said one might shoot a rocket to the moon and it would signal its arrival by the explosion of a load of flashlight powder.

Some critics thought that was nonsense because rocket propulsion cannot work in empty space. It can and does as we know very well by now. Others took a kidding attitude.

Goddard lacked the personality which can, if necessary, shout down a stubborn opponent, and grew quite retiring. He worked on, supported by grants from the Guggenheim and Carnegie Foundations and in 1935, one of his rockets reached an altitude of 7,500 feet.

FUNDS STOPPED

His work was then stopped for lack of funds.

After the outbreak of Second World War, he worked for the Navy again, this time trying to develop rockets that were to facilitate the take-off of the Navy's flying boats.

In 1945, he died in the aftermath of a throat operation. If he had lived for only two more years, he would have seen what rockets can do. Even his take-off units did not become his direct monument. A California group was more successful in the same field. But American scientists now know that he pointed the way.

PAIRS OF A KIND

Just as Ganswindt and Ziolkovsky belong together even if they did not know of one another's existence, Goddard and his German counterpart Hermann Oberth must be mentioned in the same breath. Oberth, now a mathematician at the Army's Redstone Arsenal, Huntsville, Ala., was born June 25, 1894, at Schassburg in Transylvania, part of a German-speaking enclave in a mainly Hungarian area.

Since his father was a physician the son was to become one too, but he found mathematics more stimulating. Though 12 years younger than Goddard, he did his fundamental reasoning at the same time—during First World War.

Liquid Fuel Theory Duplicated

Like Ziolkovsky, he hit upon the idea of liquid fuels, which Goddard mentioned only once, but used when he experimented at a later date. Like Goddard, he conceived the step rocket.

But aside from those two items, everything was as different as possible. Goddard had named his book "A Method of Reaching Extreme Altitudes." Oberth called his "The Rocket Into Interplanetary Space."

Goddard had mainly instrument-carrying rockets for exploration of the upper atmosphere in mind. Oberth described an instrument-carrying rocket because it was scientifically useful. But he considered his instrument-carrying rocket mainly as a prototype for the spaceships that had to come.

'STEP BY STEP'

To Oberth's mind, as to the minds of his disciples, every improvement in a rocket was merely one more step on the road to space travel. There was no thought of missiles then. Liquid fuel rockets, if only they grew large enough, would be spaceships. The one problem on the agenda, therefore, was to make them grow as fast as possible.

In 1923, Oberth wrote that one could put a large rocket into an orbit around the earth. The men could then leave it by means of a smaller "landing rocket" and return to it the same way with additional equipment. That way the circling rocket would, in time, be transformed into a manned space station.

It was for the first time that the thought of a manned artificial satellite had been uttered in print since E. E. Hale's "Brick Moon." But, of course, Oberth had not read that story. He could read English only with great difficulty. And I think I have never caught him reading a novel, in any language.

SATURDAY: Early problems in developing the "egg"—the rocket motor.

by Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe, former minister of trade and commerce, promising to issue a permit when the Federal Power Commission in Washington had approved the import of Canadian gas at Emerson.

POLITICS DRAGGED IN

"It is a serious matter when a commitment like this can be repudiated," Mr. Low said.

Midwestern Gas Transmission Company, a subsidiary of Tennessee Gas Transmission Company, has an application before the Federal Power Commission in the U.S. seeking the right to import Alberta natural gas at Emerson. It was learned at Ottawa Friday that those opposing the application were prepared to argue that in the light of Mr. Diefenbaker's statement in the Commons Thursday there was no longer in existence a firm commitment from the Canadian government that a permit to export would be available to Trans-Canada. On that grounds they will seek dis-

the inevitable delay in announcing Canadian policy, waiting upon the report of the royal commission, the American interest seeking to import Canadian gas at Emerson would seek other sources.

MARKET MIGHT GO

"That prospective market for Alberta gas might well be gone forever," Mr. Low said.

"The accusations were not resolved in the Supreme Court action," the premier said, "and the action was dismissed recently at the instance of the person making the statements and allegations."

"Since that time I have been in communication with the attorney-general... and it is his recommendation that an inquiry be launched under the Public Inquiries Act."

WIDE POWERS

ers' questions after the statement was completed.

He was particularly annoyed at questions dealing with the attorney-general's position in that Mr. Bonner had originally rejected an inquiry into Mr. Sturdy's allegations.

"I don't want to discuss that," Mr. Bennett said.

When a reporter asked whether he thought Mr. Bonner had "erred" in his earlier judgment, the premier said after a slight pause:

"My friend, the attorney-general is the attorney-general, and the government has acted on his recommendations."

The premier also refused to discuss what effect the inquiry would have on Mr. Sommers' position as MLA for Rossland-Trail.

"That isn't a question to ask the premier," he said. "The premier doesn't elect MLAs."

Mr. Bennett stressed repeatedly that the government was acting on the advice of Mr. Bonner in ordering the inquiry.

MAKE SURE

"I want it made very sure this recommendation came from him," the premier said.

(When a Vancouver newspaper telephoned Mr. Bonner in London Tuesday night and informed him of the dismissal of Mr. Sommers' suit, the attorney-general stuck to his original stand against ordering an inquiry or releasing the special RCMP report on the case. The next day, he told the newspaper that an inquiry "could not be ruled out.")

In his statement the premier reviewed the history of the charges which will now be investigated some two years after they were first made.

He referred to the statements made in the legislature by former Liberal MLA Gordon Gibson in the spring of 1955 that "money had talked" in the issuance of forest management licences.

The government appointed Mr. Justice A. E. Lord to investigate the allegations, but Mr. Gibson declined to appear before him.

Then, in December, 1955, Mr. Sturdy appeared before Chief Justice Sloan's Forestry Commission and attempted to present his information.

Chief Justice Sloan said the terms of reference of his inquiry prevented him from hearing Mr. Sturdy, but the allegations were printed in the press and Mr. Sommers launched his civil slander action.

"The accusations were not resolved in the Supreme Court action," the premier said, "and the action was dismissed recently at the instance of the person making the statements and allegations."

"Since that time I have been in communication with the attorney-general... and it is his recommendation that an inquiry be launched under the Public Inquiries Act."

Trans-Canada has entered into a precedent agreement, dated Aug. 11, 1955, with Tennessee which provides for a 25 years contract for the sale of 200,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas per day to be delivered at Emerson. The right to purchase gas at Emerson has been assigned by Tennessee to Midwestern.

Bowie Kicks Lovely Star In Bullring

LONDON (Reuters) — Hollywood star Ava Gardner is nursing painful bruises after being butted by a cow in a private bullring in Seville, a London newspaper says.

The London Daily Mail says Miss Gardner is in London incognito recovering from a cow's charge on the ranch of Spain's leading horseback bullfighter Angel Peralta.

The Mail says the cow up-ended the Hollywood beauty and kicked her in the back of the neck.

SYMPHONY BY SOVIET COMPOSER PREMIERED

LONDON (AP)—Dmitri Shostakovich's 11th symphony—the first he has written in four years—was given its first performance in Moscow Wednesday.

The new work, called 1905, was played by the Soviet State Symphony Orchestra. Moscow radio quoted conductor Natta Rakhlin as saying it is "the most outstanding of Shostakovich's works."

HERE AND THERE

Combined Ops Beat Balky Pen Machine

By NORMAN CIBBENS
One way of making friends is to get yourself into some kind of difficulty.

I made that discovery in a downtown cafe while endeavoring to buy a ball-point pen from one of those 25-cent slot machines.

The machine digested my coin but wouldn't cough up a pen. Two customers promptly came to my assistance in punching, jiggling and shaking the offending machine until finally the monster surrendered and gave me what I had paid for.

Then I found the pen wouldn't write. Up came another customer and said: "You have to burn the point with a match—there is a thin coating of wax over it."

All three then proffered matches and the job was done.

POINT STUCK

Next I had trouble retracting the point which had stuck in the writing position. Up came two more helpers and discoursed learnedly on the mechanism of ball-point pens.

One of them took the whole apparatus to pieces, adjusted the spring and handed me back the pen.

And so, having done their good deed for the day, the five men returned to their afternoon coffee.

Had no idea there were so many Manx people in Victoria until I wrote an item in The Times about a resident of Port St. Mary, Isle of Man, who wanted to emigrate to B.C. and asked which city I would recommend—Victoria or New Westminster?

The response was a flock of phone calls from Manxmen (and Manx-women) who wanted to write to the would-be emigrant offering him a special welcome to Victoria.

One of the welcoming committee is Frank Kitto, sales manager of a Victoria real estate firm, who came here from Port St. Mary 30 years ago.

I heard recently of a Victoria man who committed a terrible deed in a church porch. While examining the notice board inside he inadvertently dropped a small bottle of whisky from his greatcoat pocket.

It smashed on the stone floor and the odoriferous liquid flowed in all directions. At that awful moment two women church workers entered and the visitor apologized profusely both for having liquor in his possession and for dropping it in a church.

"Oh, that's all right," said one of the ladies soothingly. "We do not condemn the use of liquor—only the abuse of it."

Film Magnate Mayer Given Lavish Rites

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Louis B. Mayer, a king of Hollywood, was buried Thursday in one of the most lavish funerals in movieland history.

A huge bank of flowers, many of them big wreaths of orchids, stretched 100 feet across the altar of Wilshire Boulevard Temple. So bulky were the floral offerings that a large moving van was used to transport them to the private interment rites at Home of Peace cemetery.

Mayer, who grew up in Saint John, N.B., and was founder of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio, died Tuesday of leukemia. He was 72.

Arrests Ordered At Little Rock

City Council Tells Police to Apprehend All Officers of Colored Association

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP).—Police today had orders to arrest all officers of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People they could find in integration-wracked Little Rock.

The city council Thursday night voted unanimously for the arrests.

Acting mayor Lee H. Evans and seven aldermen agreed on the action after the NAACP failed to obey a new ordinance which requires certain groups to bare their confidential files.

Deadline for submitting the information was Thursday.

SEEK MINISTER

The other officer is Rev. J. C. Crenshaw, pastor of the Mt. Pleasant Baptist Church and president of the Little Rock chapter of the NAACP.

Mayor Woodrow Wilson Mann notified the NAACP and three Little Rock segregationist groups Oct. 15 that they would have to make their records public under the new ordinance.

The NAACP this week filed a petition in U.S. district court here requesting a restraining order to block enforcement of the ordinance and a hearing was set for Nov. 4.

All three of the segregation groups—the League of Central High Mothers, the freedom fund for Little Rock and the Capital Citizens' Council—submitted their records to the city Thursday.

Mann said after telling the four organizations to file their reports that he considered all were contributing to racial tension at Little Rock.

The federal-state deadlock over integration of nine Negro students at Central High School shows no sign of loosening.

Federal soldiers still remain inside and outside Central High.

An NAACP spokesman said Mrs. Bates planned to leave New York for Little Rock after a Sunday speaking engagement. "She is not the kind to run away from a fight," the spokesman said.

MAMA SAYS 'NO'

Super Sheik
Saud Would
Wed Girl, 19

CAIRO (AP).—The newspaper Al Akhbar says today that Saudi Arabian King Saud's mother put the 55-year-old monarch's romance with a 19-year-old Lebanese schoolgirl into cold storage.

The paper's editor, Mustafa Amin, reported from Beirut that the king's mother said "No! No!" when he took home a picture of pretty, dark-haired Ferial Solh, a niece of Lebanese Premier Sami Solh.

Saud's desire to marry Ferial was reported a week ago from Beirut, after he concluded a state visit to Lebanon. Ferial's mother confirmed that her daughter might wed the king. Saud has the four wives Moslem law allows him, as well as 40 sons, an unstated number of daughters and between 50 and 100 concubines. However, under Moslem law he can shed a wife at any time by saying "I divorce thee" three times.

Al Akhbar's editor indicates that the marriage still might come off, reporting that Ferial is a bride-to-be "under probation."

Saud's father, King Ibn Saud, who died in 1953, married 135 times and fathered 40 sons and more than 100 daughters. In accordance with the Koran, however, he never took more than four wives at a time.

4 MEXICANS JAILED IN MOLNAR CASE

MEXICO CITY (AP).—Four men, including two former secret service agents, were convicted Thursday on charges of robbing a Canadian couple from whom they tried to extort $10,000, and sentenced to five years in prison.

The victims were Louis Allan Molnar and his wife Rita Ann, daughter of Charles Labine, Toronto mining executive.

The Molnars said the men told them their documents were out of order and they faced deportation, but the matter could be fixed for $10,000.

Merchants Remanded As Witness Ailing

Eight charges of failing to close grocery premises on Sunday were adjourned in Saanich police court Thursday to Nov. 14 due to illness of a crown witness.

Seven storekeepers were charged under provision of the Municipal Act regarding Sunday hours. Two charges are against Henry Eng, proprietor of Outdoor Garden Market, 3475 Quadra, who has pleaded not guilty.

Course to be taken by the others likely will depend on the outcome of the first two charges.

HALLOWEEN WAS A PUSHOVER

THERE AREN'T AS MANY things to topple on Halloween today as in years gone by. But P. W. Topham, W. G.

Swartz and J. W. T. Dickson find little consolation as they straighten up mail boxes.

MONTE ROBERTS

This "do-it-yourself" jazz has gone far enough. It is high time to stop it dead in its tracks, turn it around, and send it back where it came from. If it came from anywhere, which I doubt.

I have been able to stand by with reasonable restraint while various do-it-yourself projects have formed themselves within eyesight: projects such as do-it-yourself barbecues, do-it-yourself dining alcoves, do-it-yourself breezeways, do-it-yourself compost heaps.

I can even admire the lawyer who invests in a power-saw with which to produce do-it-yourself dining room furniture; the doctor with the complete set of water color paints, with which he paints do-it-yourself pictures for the walls of his homes; and the newspaper reporter who borrows a set of wrenches and sets up the spark plugs on his automobile, do-it-yourself style.

But I must reiterate, this do-it-yourself jazz has gone far enough.

In the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post, there is an author who actually authored his own work, and I claim this is carrying do-it-yourself much, much, too far.

The author to whom I refer is Art Linkletter, and the reason I know this author authored when he wrote is this statement by the Saturday Evening Post:

"HE WROTE IT HIMSELF"

"The sole author is Mr. Linkletter himself, who, unlike many celebrities, had no help from a collaborator in telling his story."

This is a dangerous trend—a departure to be eschewed by all well meaning authors.

And the fact it emerges in the environs of the Saturday Evening Post—that home of Pete Martin—as doubly dangerous.

If the Saturday Evening Post is going to let its authors author their own authoring, the penultimate in do-it-yourself will have been arrived at.

The ultimate, of course, will be the housewife who bakes a cake without a do-it-yourself cake mix.

SOAPED WINDOWS are common Halloween prank and easily fixed, as Gladys Hitchen demonstrates at Carey Road drug store.

221 More Jobless This Week

Unemployment figures in Greater Victoria area leaped by 221 during the past week to hit a total of 2,907.

Greater by 700 than the corresponding figure last year, the total probably will be increased over the weekend when 90 plywood workers at B.C. Forest Products are laid off.

The weekly National Employment Service report released today blamed the increase on province-wide conditions along with cutbacks in local shipping and construction industries.

FROM UP-ISLAND

"The local picture is still being aggravated by workers returning to the city following up-island and mainland layoffs," officials said.

Breakdown of the total shows 1,929 men and 978 women are registered at the office here.

However, there are some strong spots in the employment picture.

There is urgent demand for sheet metal workers, furnace installers and auto body men.

Specialized salesmen, electrical draftsmen and engineers are needed too.

In the women's division, an acute shortage exists for all types of domestic workers.

There also are vacancies for waitresses, cooks, typists and stenographers.

The gathering is open to relatives and the interested public.

A report by Greater Victoria Centennial Committee secretary Capt. D. J. Proudfoot, that 1,000,000 units of fireworks would be ordered from Canton for local celebration, was discounted by other officials today.

"Nothing at all has been decided," said secretary of Chinese Benevolent Association, Peter Wong.

"I don't think I would agree with buying any fireworks from Red China," said G. K. Sammon, vice-president of the centennial committee.

Eligible voters in the Saanich civic election next month number 20,675, an increase of 806. The figure was confirmed today when nobody showed up at a court of revision.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: James R. Proudlove, 2811 Adelaide, $40 and licence suspended for careless driving;

Eric D. Scoates, 2137 Central, $35, careless driving;

Lloyd Gerald Rolheiser, HMCS Fraser, $25 for no B.C. driver's licence, and $25 for no B.C. licence plates;

William Harry Smith, HMCS Naden, $10, no rear licence plate illumination.

QUIET HALLOWEEN

Police Action Averts Rowdyism

Firm action by Greater Victoria police forces put a damper on Halloween rowdyism Thursday night.

Police courts will be busy handling a variety of charges in the near future as a result of the celebrations—but this year, most of the alleged law-breakers are adults.

At least 14 merchants have been charged with after hours fireworks sales—10 in Victoria and four in Saanich. Ten of the charges preceded the celebrations.

Victoria police also will issue summonses to youths who defied the order to keep fireworks out of the downtown area. Number of summonses, while not certain, will be less than 10.

One boy is charged with obstruction.

Most serious charges have been laid by Colwood RCMP. Five juveniles, three boys and two girls, who "jumped the gun" on Halloween, have been charged with wilful damage.

They were apprehended during a wrecking spree in the Fish and Game Association Clubhouse at Goldstream during the noon hour Thursday.

RCMP set a damage estimate at $200. Entry was forced and a glass showcase of mounted birds was destroyed. A number of cups and trophies were damaged after clay pigeons, used in skeet shooting, were hurled at them.

It is understood the five are high school students who travelled to the clubhouse in a car during the noon hour.

In Oak Bay and Saanich, police reported "the quietest Halloween ever." Esquimalt Chief Gilbert Stancombe denied earlier reports that some charges would be laid in that municipality.

The district was free from Halloween accidents. Only one youngster was treated at hospital for fireworks burns, and he was released.

Biggest change from recent years occurred in the Victoria downtown area. Police stepped on fireworks mischief early in the evening, confiscating bombs in many cases.

Yates Street was closed to traffic between Douglas and Blanshard. Gangs of youths who came down to see whether earlier warnings meant business, were kept on the move.

Restaurant 'Hangouts' Close Early

Three restaurants near Odeon Theatre, where many youngsters congregate most nights, closed their doors before 7 p.m.

At least one other city restaurant used the Halloween motif to draw guests. The Net Loft put all staff members in costume and decorated the premises with headless bodies and skeletons, wearing signs such as "He ate here."

Harmless enjoyment was the keynote of bonfire parties staged in other parts of the district.

Saanich firemen and Saanich police sponsored a bonfire at Shelbourne Street firehall. Wives of the group prepared hotdogs and other treats for 500.

Biggest bonfire was at Oak Bay where Kiwanis and firemen sponsored the event. Entertainment was provided by the Homeowners and Reg Stofor at the organ. About 800 attended, many adults escorting the children.

Esquimalt Lions did a similar job at Bullen Park and were credited by police with aiding greatly in keeping Halloween safe and sensible.

Many other organizations, including Victoria West Community Association and many private groups, held bonfires and "feeds" for kiddies from Langford to Sidney, Sooke to Victoria.

While not harassed to the same degree as other years police were kept busy with constant complaints of hooliganism.

Windows were broken, bombs were dropped through letter slots, street lights popped, fences disappeared.

A fire set at the front door of 487 St. Charles was extinguished before damage resulted. Boulevard trees were damaged and many passing cars were attacked with firecracker fusillades.

Many motorists were given a scare by a dummy hung by a rope beneath the Thetis underpass.

Some hydrants were opened in Langford and some false alarms were turned in from various parts of the district.

Kiernan to Free Island Iron Ore

Move to Expand Industry; New Tax Details Explained

Expansion of the Vancouver Island iron ore mining industry was foreseen today following a government decision to lift its reserve on the area.

Mines Minister Kiernan announced the reserve will be lifted in about two weeks in the Nanaimo, Victoria and Alberni mining divisions, which includes islands in the Gulf of Georgia.

The minister also released details of how the government's new tax on iron ore will be applied.

If the operator has done an approved amount of exploratory work, he may apply for a 50 per cent return of his tax of 50 cents a ton.

"We believe that this provision for the rebate will encourage mining operators to search diligently for new ore bodies and thus improve our known iron ore supply," Mr. Kiernan said.

The minister added that the bonus system set up for production of pig iron within the province is a further inducement for establishment of smelting facilities in the province, and will more than offset the new tax.

The tax will become effective this year and may apply to all production during 1957.

SPUR HUNT

He said rebate provisions in the tax regulations for exploratory work should encourage operators to hunt for new ore bodies.

Two main iron ore producers in this area at present are Empire Development Ltd. at Quatsino and Texada Mines Ltd. on Texada Island.

Mr. Kiernan said the government has indications that other firms are interested in iron ore prospects on Vancouver Island.

ONLY PLACE

At present the Island is the only area of the province which has shown a capacity for iron ore production.

However, the possibility that an iron ore smelter may be established on the Island still is uncertain.

The minister admitted he could not foresee establishment of a smelter anywhere in the province in the immediate future.

Main factor determining a site for the smelter is that it be on tidewater.

IN 1951

The reserve was placed on all prospective iron ore properties in the province in 1951. It prevented anyone from acquiring any interest in new iron ore discoveries.

It was designed to protect remaining ore in the province from export.

Under the new leasing provisions ore cannot be exported without the consent of the government.

All iron ore mined will be subject to a royalty of 25 cents to 50 cents per ton of ore of 50 per cent content.

DIRECT REVENUE

Mr. Kiernan said the new tax, besides being designed to discourage export, will for the

Chatterton Hat In Saanich Ring

At least one Saanich councillor will run again in next month's election when 20,675 voters are eligible to go to the polls.

Coun. George Chatterton said today he "definitely" will stand for re-election Dec. 12 when the reeveship and three council seats will be decided.

A member of District 63 (Saanich) school board for eight years including two as chairman, he was elected by acclamation in a by-election this summer for his first seat on municipal council.

"I had thought of running for reeve this year, but I decided against it. However, I definitely will stand for council," he said.

NAVAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

Crescent, Fraser, Skeena leave 8:30 a.m. Monday, return Friday p.m.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

The fifth "picture loan" arrangement at the Art Gallery, Moss Street, will be held Monday at 8 p.m.

Gallery members may rent specified pictures for $2 a month, while guests and non-members are invited to view the display.

The loans are arranged by the women's committee.

Eight-room addition to Margaret Jenkins School will be formally opened tonight by W. H. Golby, chairman of the Greater Victoria School Board.

The opening will tie in with the Margaret Jenkins-Bank Street PTA's annual fall fair, which begins at 7.

Charged Oct. 19 as a minor in possession of liquor, Barry Keith Durie, 19, HMCS Fraser, entered a guilty plea in city police court today and was fined $15 or, in default, three days.

Second payment of $5,000 to the city for 5% acres on Harriet Road was made today by the Gorge View Society, Victoria presbytery of the United Church of Canada. The final $5,000 is "in sight," society official Paul Naftel said.

Construction of 62 duplexes and 16 single units for elderly persons will cost $400,000, he said, to be raised through church donations and individual contributions. The housing project will be open to all denominations.

Charge of breaking and entering Universal Sheet Metal Ltd., laid against David H. Ward was dismissed in city police court today.

Evidence concerning the break-in Oct. 11 was "not sufficiently strong" to show intent to steal, Magistrate H. C. Hall said.

The magistrate committed Allan Lane and Ronald Beckley, both facing the same charge, to trial before a county court judge.

First contract negotiations covering 11 office employees of Empress Motors Ltd. here will begin soon, Al Playfair, representative of Office Employees International Union, said today.

Local 15 of the union recently was certified as bargaining agent for the employees.

OCTOBER'S TEMPERATURE TRUE TO FORM

October's mean temperature of 51.2 degrees matched exactly the October average set during 59 years of weather recording here, weatherman William Mackie said today.

Maximum temperature was 66.4 degrees Oct. 10, and the minimum was 35.6 degrees Oct. 23. Minimum at ground level was 27 degrees Oct. 4.

Rainfall was only 1.84 inches, or 99 inch less than normal, and rain fell on 12 days instead of the usual 14.

Total precipitation since Jan. 1 is 16.29 inches, or 1.9 inches less than normal.

New Beach Studied For Beaver Lake

Construction of a new beach at Beaver Lake, north of the present beach and pavilion, is under study by centennial park planners.

Ald. M. H. Mooney, chairman of a Victoria-Saanich Beaches and Parks sub-committee, said today.

"This could be one of the finest beaches in the area."

"The lake margins already boast park-like surroundings," he stated, "and there is a gradual slope to the water and plenty of parking space."

Many other organizations, including Victoria West Community Association and many private groups, held bonfires and "feeds" for kiddies from Langford to Sidney, Sooke to Victoria.

While not harassed to the same degree as other years police were kept busy with constant complaints of hooliganism.

A fire set at the front door of 487 St. Charles was extinguished before damage resulted. Boulevard trees were damaged and many passing cars were attacked with firecracker fusillades.

Many motorists were given a scare by a dummy hung by a rope beneath the Thetis underpass.

Some hydrants were opened in Langford and some false alarms were turned in from various parts of the district.

SPACE TOYS IN ANOTHER ORBIT?

Dolls Reign Supreme At Toyland Opening

By TONY DICKASON

Today it was proven, beyond the shadow of a satellite, that the doll is still the thing.

In the Hudson's Bay toy department, first to open among Victoria's major department stores for the Christmas trade, dolls take pre-eminence over the thousands of other offerings.

Space gadgets are as rare as Sputnik's beep.

Doll counter clerk Mrs. Dorothy Logan introduced a doll that would focus eyes at any ball.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—What is the deadliest of all poisons?—K.E.

A.—Generally believed to be the deadliest is the toxin of spore forming "clostridium botulinum," which may develop from canned goods being heated to a temperature not high enough to destroy the spores. It has been computed that three tenths of a gram of an ounce of botulinum toxin is fatal to an adult of average weight.

Q.—What is blank verse?—U.Y.

Verse that is unrhymed. Here is Shakespeare: "Once more unto the breach, dear friends, once more Or close the wall up with our English dead."

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

Tough Week for Socreds

This race-hatred found violent expression in the Commons speeches of the late Norman Jacques. At various times, although it is now deemed wise to smother it, for political reasons, it has been given expression by Blackmore, Hansell, Quelch, and others.

A few years ago the Hon. Eric Martin gave a speech to Victoria Rotary in which he referred to a mysterious "International they" who were out to "rob Canadians of their sovereignty." It was so sickening several members got up and walked out.

anyway? Most responsible authorities today attribute it to fear.

Social creditors, historically, have been fearful; the poor, bumbling misfits of life who never seemed to be able to make a go of anything. Of course, something was wrong; it must be the system! Money wasn't distributed fairly, and so on and so forth.

Casting about them for somebody to blame for their ills, they looked at the Jews and found them brilliant (I wonder if any Social Credit children have been treated with Salk vaccine?); talented (listened to a Heifetz solo?); wise (said Dr. Einstein, "She brings me cookies and I do her homework"); and even, in many cases, rich (like the Guggenheims, of the Founda-

And so this consuming envy, this wicked philosophy, began to show up in Social Credit preachings and writings, and found expression here last week in the maudlin derings of the Peace River accountant.

It would be unfair to suggest that all Social Crediters today subscribe to these lunacies. But there is a strong authoritarian strain in the party still. They would like to control the press, as they showed in the Alberta Act of 1936. (Mr. Bennett has intervened personally in attempts to have hostile critics fired.) They disdain Sunday afternoon baseball, even when the majority votes in favor of it. They really (secretly) disapprove of drinking. They believe that civil servants can be held in jobs by coercion.

But let's agree: they've had a bad week. There are agonizing reappraisals taking place on every street corner. And my, how that halo is tilted!

Senior VON Staff Members To Discuss Rehabilitation

OTTAWA (CP)—A group of senior Victorian Order of Nurses staff members will meet here Nov. 7-9 to discuss rehabilitation of patients suffering chronic diseases.

Christine Livingstone, VON director in chief, today said the conference will attempt to give nurses a broader look at various aspects of rehabilitation. About 35 VON nurses are to attend the three-day session at VON headquarters. Specialists in various aspects of rehabilitation work will address the group.

Many chronic illnesses may be prevented and many people who might have faced a lifetime of dependency may be helped to return to useful and normal activities, said Miss Livingstone.

But rehabilitation called for the combined activities of many persons. Nurses should know as much as possible about other fields of rehabilitation and be able to fit home nursing service into a total program.

Speakers at the conference are Dr. Allistair MacLeod, Montreal; Dr. J. B. R. McKendry and Dr. Samuel Mirsky, Ottawa; Dr. J. S. Crawford, Toronto; Betty Hutchinson, Toronto; Dorothy Madgett, Toronto; physiotherapist, and Dr. F. B. Roth of Saskatoon, deputy minister of the Saskatchewan department of health.

Dr. G. D. W. Cameron of Ottawa, deputy minister of health, and Bruce McKenzie of Ottawa, a medical-social work consultant with the federal health department, are other conference speakers.

FROM VICTORIA

Miss Elizabeth Riddell, district director of Victoria Branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses, will leave this weekend to attend the meeting of senior staff members of the VON in Ottawa, Nov. 7 to 9.

Altrusa Marks A Birthday

Fifth annual birthday party of Victoria Altrusa Club was celebrated recently at Old Charming Inn. Arrangements were in charge of Marion Bolingbroke and Irene Carroll. A large birthday cake decorated in club colors, blue and white, a gift from Grace Morrow, centered the table. A penny auction was held and bingo played.

Proceeds of the event will be added to the grants-in-aid fund of the club.

Plans were made at the last meeting of the club for a rummage sale in November and the annual Christmas dinner party for senior citizens in December. Latest project of the club is the sponsoring of a speech therapy course for a girl who has recently undergone plastic surgery.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

Displaying wedding gifts: Are shower gifts displayed with wedding gifts? Who lifts the bride's veil so that she can kiss the groom? Does she do it, or her maid of honor, or does the groom?

Louise Davis answers:

Shower gifts are sometimes displayed with the wedding gifts. It is optional, but if they are shown, it is advisable to keep them separate. However, much depends on the available space. Wedding gifts have the Louise Davis priority, so if the gift table begins to get crowded, it would be wise to remove the shower gifts to display their shower gifts in another room. The bride generally lifts the veil herself. The maid of honor should keep a watchful eye in case the bride has difficulty, in which case she is right there to assist.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Vitamins Lost When We Pour Water Off Vegetables

Q. "How are vitamins lost in cooking?"

A. The greatest loss is in the water which some cooks pour off the vegetables. There is also some loss through evaporation, especially in the case of cabbage. We should cook with as little water as possible and then cook dry—or pour no water off. We also lose vitamins when we peel fruit.

Q. "I have your abdominal exercises, but do you know a good exercise to get rid of a spare tire around the middle? I will be watching your column for one."

A. The waist is the easiest spot of all to reduce. This measurement responds to exercise rapidly. Try the two following exercises.

1. Stand tall, feet comfortably apart. Raise the arms sideward, shoulder height. Bend to the left, touching the fingers of the left hand to the floor. Raise the trunk and pull back as your trunk passes across the centre of the body and continues to bend right. Try to touch the fingertips of the right hand to the floor. Raise the trunk and pull back as your trunk crosses the centre of the body and you continue on to bend left again. This is a smooth, rolling motion, as you bend from side to side and pull back as the trunk crosses the centre line of the body.

2. Again stand tall. This time bend both elbows and place your hands flat on the top of your head, one hand on top of the other. Keep your arms in this position as you bend forward as far as you can. Raise the trunk. Continue. Be SURE to keep the back flat as you bend, and the knees straight.

After a while, with the arms still in this position, bend to the left, raise the trunk and then bend to the right and continue. Take time for the pull when doing these exercises.

Q. "How can I make my hair grow faster? I cut it too short and it takes so long for it to grow out."

A. Sorry. You will just have to let nature take its course.

Q. "I have a birthmark on the side of my neck which has caused me much unhappiness. I have tried to no avail to cover it up with cosmetics. If you could tell me of some preparation that will cover it, I would be forever grateful. You cannot know how much it would mean to me."

A. Send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request, and I will send you the information you wish. I do not give trade names in this column.

Hong Kong Golf Hazards Left Fearless Fearful

HONG KONG (UP)—The guy who claimed that golf was a sissy game never played at the Royal Hong Kong Golf Club.

This may explain why a handsome, moustached man named Kim Hall is colony champion for the second straight year. Because Kim was shot up and down over Trieste and he long ago learned that fear is a no-time thing.

As for old Fearless, you may now refer to me as old Fearful.

Because this is a course where leopards, cobras, tigers, bamboo snakes, guerrilla warfare, camouflaged soldiers, rumbling tanks and galloping horses are no more rare than double bogeys on the Fraley scoreboard.

"Don't be surprised if we see a leopard," Kim said casually as he went a tee short whistling straight down the middle. "There's supposed to be one loose around here right now. Down from South China mountains y'know."

I did not know or I wouldn't have come.

"Nice straight tee shot," I quavered, spraying one into the rough.

"You have to be straight here," he replied. "Lots of snakes in the rough y'know." I hadn't known. I hit a "mulligan."

Finally, on the fairway, I saw my ball laying atop a small hole and suggested that under winter rules I should be able to move it.

"By all means," Kim said. "But do it carefully. That's a bamboo snake hole and if one of those nips you, you're gone in three hours y'know."

I didn't know. But I was almost gone right then—back to the clubhouse.

Up ahead it looked as if there was a small clump of bushes screening the green. My haphazard approach shot made straight for the bushes—but the bushes moved aside.

I rubbed my eyes.

"Yes, they moved," Kim chuckled. "It's troops practicing camouflage war. They do that all the time around here. If they hadn't seen you, your ball probably would have made 'ping' when it hit one of their helmets."

I hurried forward to apologize to the "bushes" but they melted into a glade of trees and I saw they had screened a sandtrap. And there, so help me, was the ball—with a cobra sitting on it like a hen hatching an egg.

"You get a free lift in a case like this," said Kim. "Only thing is, you have to lift the snake first."

Playing a new ball, Oie Fearless dribbled it into the same trap and finally playing another ball made the green. Then just as I was about to putt, a man galloped over a rise down along the edge of the green and pelted off down the fairway to intercept a tank which rumbled into sight from the direction of the second green.

"Colonel So and So," said Kim casually. "Really loves horses y'know, but doesn't care a bit for golf."

Right about there the colonel had company. The only thing I hadn't seen after one hole was a leopard. We gave it up there and couldn't even play the 19th hole.

For at the Royal Hong Kong Golf Club, they really have two 19th holes—one from the 18th green to the men's clubhouse and the other to the ladies' clubhouse.

But we made up for it on the 20th hole.

YATES AT QUADRA 3-1108 Chev., Olds., Cadillac

OUTDOOR REPORT BY Doug Peden

Usually by the time we get around to celebrating Halloween, the fishing chatter revolves around either grise and winter springs or trout and guessing the time when the first steelhead run will be along.

But with the November sheet exposed on the calendar this morning, coho salmon are still the main topic in tackle shop huddles.

Taking advantage of better-than-average sessions of late-October weather, anglers have continued to take the scrappy silvers in many places around the Island and have probably been scoring most consistently at Cowichan Bay.

Pedder Bay and the Crofton area have both produced some good catches in the past week, but it is Cowichan that has been getting most attention among lower Island waters.

Early-morning trolling has been the most productive at Cowichan although there have also been occasional flurries of action during afternoon periods. Bucktail flies, especially the light blue and white and the green and white varieties, top the list of recommended lures, but some coho are also hitting other standard offerings.

Anglers are again able to operate in any section of Cowichan Bay. The partial closure, which closed off the river mouth to trolling, was lifted Wednesday.

Alex Johnston was one of those who boated a limit catch at Cowichan Thursday morning and Sid Harknett, using a blue and white bucktail, reeled in three bright silvers.

Paul Jones took his limit before 10:30 Wednesday morning. Bill Martin also filled his four-salmon quota and Lee Hallberg and Mel Vance combined for a catch of five coho.

A few coho are also being taken in Saanich Inlet and at Deep Cove, where there has been little activity except on weekends.

Grise, of course, are abundant throughout the Inlet and a good number of anglers are filling their limits with jack springs, averaging around five pounds but occasionally tipping the scales at twice that weight.

Largest salmon reported at Saanich Inlet during the past week was the 11½-pound spring Tony Rosin hooked near Goldstream Island on a Wallace Highliner plug.

The Island elk season was the best we have had yet in the number of bulls taken, but there are some hunters who insist the season should start a couple of weeks later.

Main reason for their claim is the amount of elk meat that was spoiled before it reached a freezing plant. It is believed close to 1,000 pounds of elk meat that came out of the Shaw Creek area at Cowichan Lake had to be thrown away.

While warm weather was partially responsible, it is doubtful if a later shooting season would have made much difference. The biggest reason for the loss of potential steaks and roasts was that many hunters were hunting elk for the first time and had given little thought to what they would do if and when they downed a bull.

As a result, several elk were killed far from transportation by sportsmen who had made inadequate preparations for handling several hundred pounds of meat. It was a long, back-breaking struggle for many, and often a heart-breaking one when they learned that time had done its work and the meat was ruined.

In most cases, a later season would have made little difference. What was needed was more knowledge and preparation.

TIME OUT!

By JEFF KEATE

"I'm an absolute clinch to knock the bum out in the first round, boys, now that I've learned not to be over-confident in my fights!"

Bobby No Threat To Bulgy Archie

VANCOUVER (CP)—

Archie Moore, world lightweight champion, made it look easy Thursday night with a technical knockout over Bobby Mitchell of Omaha, Neb., at 1:45 of the fifth round of a scheduled 10-round non-title bout at Exhibition Gardens.

Moore weighed 192 pounds, 17 pounds over the light heavyweight limit. Mitchell weighed 193.

Referee Bert Lowes stopped the fight after Mitchell had been sent to the canvas twice in the fifth round.

After the opening minute of the first round, the fight appeared a mis-match.

BIDDING HIS TIME

Mitchell swarmed over Moore but Archie was just biding his time, continually catching Mitchell in the corner with sharp jabs and overhand rights and lefts.

Few of Mitchell's punches did any damage. Although the world champion was never in any trouble and forced the fight after the second round, Mitchell never stopped trying.

Mitchell waded in time after time only to be met with Moore's heavy and light artillery high on the head and ears.

His face was swollen and his right eye closed under a bluish cut.

Mitchell drew cheers from the crowd of 2,100 by following aging Archie around the ring only to be sent back time and again on his heels.

The final came when Moore slugged it out with the loser near the ropes. Mitchell slumped down to one knee then rolled over on his side. He got to his feet at the eight count but the fight was already stopped.

1,200 Attend Sidney Teenagers' Halloween Frolic

SIDNEY—The most brilliant fireworks display and Halloween festival ever seen here was staged at the new community hall in Memorial Park Thursday night by the Teenage Club of Sidney.

A crowd of 1,200 met at the hall, which is still unfinished, for a costume parade, contests, and serving of candy, hot dogs and soft drinks to the youngsters.

Members of Sidney Volunteer Fire Department set off the fireworks.

TAG DAY FUNDS

The Halloween party was financed through a tag day held here last Saturday by the Teenage Club with the co-operation of members' parents.

It marked the first function held in the hall, built and financed through efforts of Sidney and North Saanich Community Hall Association.

$10,000 NEEDED

Just this week the ways and means committee of the association was authorized to raise $10,000 for completion of the hall, and it is hoped to have it ready for full use by the end of the year.

A fund drive has reached $3,158 in cash and pledges. Although no more canvassing will be done, contributions to the hall fund will be accepted at Cornish's on Beacon Avenue.

'Red Tide' Parley Here Next Week

Results of laboratory tests conducted on samples from B.C. clam and oyster beds, as a result of the influx of "red tide" in waters near Courtenay, will be discussed in Victoria next week by the Pacific Coast Shellfish Committee.

The "red tide" or goniatella, a salt water plankton that does not injure clams and oysters but makes them unfit for human consumption, broke out a week ago near Courtenay, and to date 30 persons on the Island and lower mainland have suffered a mild paralysis from eating affected shellfish.

RESULTS AWAITED

Samples have been flown to the federal food and drug division laboratory in Vancouver to determine toxicity and the shellfish industry, shut down since the beginning of the week, hopes for a recommendation that will permit at least partial resumption of work.

There have been no new cases of poisoning since placing of the ban on shellfish beds and warnings to the public.

Courtenay Funeral For Shooting Victim

COURTENAY—Funeral services were held here Thursday for Frank E. Plowright, 68, victim of a shooting accident Oct. 13, who died Monday in hospital in Vancouver.

Mr. Plowright, a civic employee on guard duty at the city dump, was eating his lunch in a shack when one of three boys target shooting at the dump fired on the shack believing it empty.

A bullet struck Mr. Plowright

HOW TO GET ALONG

Canada Sets Good Example, Says Hawrelak

PORT ALBERNI (CP) — Other nations could well emulate Canada in the readiness of her people to get along one with another, Mayor William Hawrelak of Edmonton told the Canadian Club here.

Speaking on "Our heritage in Canadian citizenship," he traced the nation's political, economic and cultural history, from the first attempt to confederate Upper and Lower Canada with people of different languages and backgrounds.

RESPECT

With the increased number of ethnic groups in the country today, Canadians are achieving a culture based on respect for one another as individuals, the mayor said.

Mayor Hawrelak said that out of the union of the two different peoples of Upper and Lower Canada, the nation has evolved a pattern of government which has preserved important rights of her citizens.

Free Lessons In Square Dance For New 'C-Saws'

CHEMUNUS — A course of eight lessons will be given free by professional instructors to new members of the "C-Saws" square dance club, which opens its winter season this week.

The club, one of the oldest square dance clubs on the Island, was started in the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Beaubien in 1948 as a private group of two sets.

After a few months of meeting in private homes members began to meet on alternate weeks in the small community hall, then moved to the parish hall. In 1951 they were officially organized as the "C-Saws."

Big Shipyard Planned

LONDON (Reuters) — Four British firms and two Cuban banks today announced an $86,000,000 project to build a shipyard in Havana to construct 25 ships of 5,000 tons. The ships will sail under the Cuban flag.

In the shoulder and severed his spinal cord, causing paralysis from the chest down. He was flown to Vancouver the same night.

Veteran of the First World War, he fought at the Somme and Vimy Ridge, and came to this district in 1930. He was a founder and secretary-treasurer of Courtenay Credit Union, an Odd Fellow, and member of the Foursquare Church.

An inquest will be held into the death.

Hemmings to Run Again at Sidney

SIDNEY — Dr. C. H. Hemmings, chairman of the Sidney Village commission during 1957, has announced that he will resign as commissioner in order to stand for re-election as chairman.

Under the old Municipal Act commissioners themselves chose their chairman after election. Under terms of the new act the chairman must be elected by the ratepayers.

With terms of commissioners Mrs. Vivian Cowan and Joseph Bilgeri expiring this year, Dr. Hemmings' resignation will bring total vacancies on the commission to three.

TO QUIT

Mrs. Cowan already has announced she will not seek re-election, and although Mr. Bilgeri is expected to stand he has made no official announcement. Terms of commissioners A. A. Cormack and T. A. Aiers have a year to run.

In neighboring Central Saanich municipality, two retiring councillors, Coun. R. M. Lamont and Coun. P. F. Warren, have announced they will seek re-election.

Eureka Mill Lays Off 26

NANAIMO — Anglo-Canadian Timber Corporation laid 26 men off at its Eureka division sawmill here at midnight Thursday, giving poor markets as the reason.

Normally the night shift is 52 men, and until now the total labor force in the mill has been 150 men. The layoff is indefinite, according to company officials, but no other curtailment is expected.

The contract provides for a union shop, equal sharing between employer and employees of the cost of an MSA program and living-out allowances on construction projects.
